Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

The weatherman is forecasting the first sunny weekend in Warren for what must seem ages. Temperatures are to be mild with a high in the upper 60s. The sun rises today at 5:52 a.m. and sets at 8:44 p.m. Friday's 7 a.m. report: high, 69; low, 51; precipitation, a trace.

KINZUA DAM REPORT

Measurements taken Friday at the Allegheny Reservoir: pool level, 1329.74 (desired summer pool 1328, maximum 1365); temperature upstream, 55; downstream, 51; Warren gauge, 6.01 ft.

WARREN COUNTY

Dedication ceremonies will be held this afternoon at the Willow Bay recreation area on the east side of the Allegheny Reservoir near the New York State line.

Being an ambulance driver calls for dedication. See a feature on the North Warren service in the Allegheny Magazine.

Sherrill Aberg, a former Youngsville resident now a teacher on Long Island, will return to his old home June 6 to deliver the high school commencement address.

Three experts will be in Warren at the end of the month to appraise the feasibility of producing an outdoor historical drama to be part of the county's yearly summer attractions.

PENNSYLVANIA

Most of Pennsylvania's 13 Republican congressmen are remaining tight-lipped about whom they favor for the GOP presidential nomination.

Changes in state scholarship grants have been proposed by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency.

NEW YORK STATE

One of the resolutions on the agenda of the Jamestown City Council meeting Monday is a proposal to study the advantages and disadvantages of dissolving the city of Jamestown. The author of the resolution, Warren Erickson, believes money could be saved by making it part of the town of Ellicott.

THE NATION

The Poor People's campaign was mired in deep mud Friday but the rain failed to dampen the spirits of Resurrection City's inhabitants.

THE WORLD

President de Gaulle appeals to the troubled French to vote him powers to make sweeping economic and social reforms, and he threatened to quit if they don't. Riotous students replied with renewed violence.

Big U.S. Stratofortresses hammer suspected North Vietnamese positions in the central highlands in an attempt to break up an offensive before it can get started.

The North Vietnam delegation seemed to slam the door on any hope of agreement with the United States short of American retreat on the bombing issue. The Reds also declined to take the initiative for breaking off preliminary Vietnam peace talks.

SPORTS

Warren County's outstanding track athletes are taking part in the State Meet at Pennsylvania State University.

Matt Voigt, of Warren Area High School, shot a 77 Friday in the state high golf tourney. He will compete today in the final 18 holes of the tourney.

Bob Foster is the new light-heavyweight champion of the world. He knocked out Dick Tiger in 2:05 of the fourth round.

The American girls, playing international tennis in Paris, continue to win.

'Poor People' Stage Birthday Parade for Mills

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 demonstrators in the Poor People's Campaign staged a birthday parade to the apartment of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Friday night.

Police barred their entrance to the building and there were no incidents in contrast to the 18 arrests outside Mills' office on Capitol Hill the previous day. Mills had left his apartment earlier for dinner on his 59th birthday anniversary.

Continuing rains left the campaign's campsite mired in ankle deep mud Friday but failed to dampen the spirits of the protesters.

Most of the 2,400 men, women and children in the plywood camp turned down offers to be moved to drier quarters in nearby churches, and plans for a large-scale evacuation were called off.

The Rev. James Bevel, an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said only about 150, mostly women and children, took advantage of the opportunity to leave the soggy camp.

The camp manager, the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, said earlier he felt most of the people should be taken out to avoid the danger of disease. Jackson said 2,000 beds had been made available for evacuees.

"We're going to try to get as many families out as we can," Jackson said then. "I feel that if they stay here we run the danger of people getting sick and maybe starting an epidemic."

He said volunteer doctors had been asked to administer flu shots to the camp residents.

The rain tapered off but the skies remained cloudy.

Campaign officials called for boots, raincoats and tons of gravel and vowed to hold the camp and carry on their fight for more government help for the needy.

DeGaulle Asks French For Powers to Make New Sweeping Reforms

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle appealed to the deeply troubled French Friday night to vote him powers to make sweeping economic and social reforms, and he threatened to quit if they don't.

The immediate reply from riotous students was renewed violence in the streets of Paris and arson fires at the Bourse—the stock exchange. Labor was skeptical at best.

In a television-radio broadcast, the 77-year-old president asked for a "mandate of renovation"—a referendum to be held in June that would give discontented students, workers and farmers a greater voice in their own affairs. No date for the referendum was announced.

First reactions from union and opposition political leaders ranged from shrugged skepticism to rejection.

Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, a moderate leftist, said the millions of striking workers and rioting students have, in effect, already given De Gaulle his answer.

Student demonstrations for university modernization, followed by labor strikes for higher wages and better working conditions, have gradually paralyzed France's major industries and most public services.

Fresh violence between students and police boiled up in the streets of Paris, Lyon, Nantes and elsewhere immediately after General de Gaulle's 7-minute address.

At the city of Lyon, a police commissioner was crushed to death Friday night by a truckload of stone pushed at police forces by student rioters, authorities said. It was the first fatality officially reported in the three weeks of violence that have swept France.

Hit-and-run student disorders also were reported in Bordeaux and Nantes as well as across a broad stretch of Paris.

"We don't give a damn for the general," chanted thousands of students massed near Paris' Lyon railroad station and the Place de la Bastille to protest the expulsion from France of their leader, Daniel Cohn-Bendit. Police replied to their barages of stones with tear gas and concussion grenades—noise bombs that stun those nearby.

Hundreds of youths late Friday night rattled open the iron gates of the classically columned Bourse, swarmed onto the trading floor, piled up wooden quotation boards and set them afire. Firemen put out the blaze but parts of the Bourse were badly damaged.

Speaking to the nation, De Gaulle spoke of the necessity to assure "the elementary existence of the country, as well as public order."

"Our country is at the edge of paralysis," he said. If the crisis is not settled, he went on, "We will tumble through civil war to the most odious and most ruinous adventures and usurpations."

Grim-faced, the president said the unrest is a sure sign that French society must be changed to permit citizens a greater share in the management of their affairs.

"Frenchwomen, Frenchmen, in the month of June you will decide by your votes," he said. "In case your reply is 'no,' it is self-evident that I will not remain any longer in my office."

De Gaulle has been president for 10 years. His re-election in 1965 to a second seven-year term means he cannot be removed from office in an election until 1972. But he can resign.

De Gaulle's address did little to calm the nation. Georges Seguy, secretary-general of the Communist-led General Confederation of Workers, said workers "don't want a referendum but better working conditions."

The French Democratic Federation of Labor, moderately left, declared that the speech "confirms the necessity to reinforce the strike movement."

"It is not a referendum that will solve the problems," said

Waldeck Rochet, secretary general of the powerful Communist party. "The government is condemned in the long run."

YHS Speaker Is Announced

ABERG

Sherrill Aberg, son of Mrs. Rose Aberg and brother of Donald Aberg, Fourth street, Youngsville and a 1943 Youngsville High School graduate, will return to his alma mater to deliver the annual commencement address.

Now a resident of Huntington, N.Y., Mr. Aberg is a member of the faculty of Cold Spring Harbor High School in Long Island. He is a graduate of Lissouri University where he received his BS degree in Education in 1949 and his Master of Arts in History in 1950.

In 1961 he was a John Hay Fellow at Colorado College; in 1963-64, a John Hay Fellow at Yale University; in 1965 a Humanities Fellow at Lehigh University and in 1967 a Coe Fellow in American History at State University of New York.

Prior to going to Cold Spring Harbor, Mr. Aberg taught in Bethel Park High School near Pittsburgh, having formerly taught in Saegertown Area High School, Burlington, Iowa Senior High School and Bay City, Mich., Junior High School.

He has several publications to his credit. Among them are Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations; 32 Problems in World History (co-author); "Problems in Teaching About Socialism," in The New Social Studies and Machiavelli; A Biography, which is in preparation.

Mr. Aberg is a reader in European history for the advance placement program; a contributor and consultant in history examinations with educational testing service as well as belonging to several educational and professional organizations.

This summer he and his wife will be guiding a 50-day tour of Europe with a group of Cold Spring Harbor students.

'WELFARE CRISIS'

As the 1968 Presidential campaign intensifies, one of the issues being most hotly debated is the "Welfare Crisis." "Welfare just isn't working," they say, and the debate is over how to overhaul it.

Starting Monday, May 27, business columnist Sylvia Porter probes the Welfare Crisis . . . and its possible outcome which could profoundly affect the pocketbooks of most Americans.

What is the so-called "negative income tax"? Why are current welfare laws foundering? How much will welfare reform cost?

U.S. Stratofortresses Hammer N. Viet Posts

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 Stratofortresses, in one of the war's heaviest saturation bombings, hammered suspected North Vietnamese positions in the central highlands Friday in an attempt to break up an offensive before it can get under way.

In the past 24 hours, the eight-engine high flying bombers loosed nearly 1,000 tons of bombs northwest of the key allied base of Kontum, near the borders of Laos and Cambodia.

U.S. intelligence officers believe the North Vietnamese will try a massive drive across the central plateau to back up their demands at the U.S.-North Vietnamese peace talks in Paris.

They reported more and more North Vietnamese troops pouring across the frontier from Laos.

U.S. outposts in the highlands have reported heavy enemy traffic nightly along a main north-south road leading from the Laotian border to Dak To. It was around Dak To that U.S. troops in heavy fighting repulsed a North Vietnamese attempt to drive across the highlands in 1965. Dak To is 30 miles north of Kontum.

Adding to the possibility that the enemy may be planning a drive in the highlands was a Moscow radio broadcast quoting a Viet Cong leader as predicting a big offensive in South Vietnam soon.

In an interview in Moscow, Nguyen Van Hieu, member of the Central Committee of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, said troops are concentrated armed with rockets, artillery and antiaircraft guns. He did not of course, say where. Hieu said when the offensive comes the "U.S. aggressors will be convinced the patriotic force will exceed one million men."

North of the highlands, the U.S. Command disclosed severshort of American retreat on the bombing issue, but declined to take the initiative for breaking off preliminary Vietnam peace talks.

The word from Hanoi, both from its delegation here and from leaders in North Vietnam, sounded harder and more uncompromising than ever as the two sides prepared for a fifth round of talks Monday after a four-day recess.

The prospect thus was for either long-term deadlock here or the showdown which could bring the talks to the brink of the collapse, for which neither side wants to take the responsibility.

A North Vietnamese delegation spokesman said that on the Hanoi side there is no question of breaking off the meeting, which he invariably calls "official conversations."

On the American side, willingness to "stay the course" was the keynote. A U.S. spokesman, referring to a description by the North Vietnamese of U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman as "perfidious and obstinate," retorted sharply.

"We don't feel we're obstinate," said the American spokesman, William J. Jordan. "We know we're not perfidious. We are trying to find answers to serious problems which are the concern of people all over the world. The sooner we stop throwing adjectives around and come to grips with real issues, the sooner we'll get something done."

But Hanoi's contention is that its delegation came here to discuss how to end the U.S. bombing of the north and that nothing else can be discussed until that is settled. Hanoi refuses to pay any price.

The voice of the North Vietnamese delegation chief here, Xuan Thuy, was orchestrated with that of Hanoi and its leaders, and the tone was one of granite firmness.

The thrust of the message carried by these voices was that the United States cannot win in Vietnam and in fact is actually losing, that it would gain nothing therefore by being stubborn in Paris, that the United States is being perfidious and obstinate in the talks and that the Americans, while calling for restraint, do anything but exercise restraint of their own.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court jury early Saturday awarded Barry Goldwater $75,000 in his libel action over a 1964 article in Fact magazine that said he was psychologically unfit to be president.

Drama Authorities to Visit Warren

Three distinguished experts on outdoor historical drama will visit Warren County from May 30 to June 2 to appraise artistic and economic feasibility of a projected outdoor historical drama for this area.

They include Dr. Samuel Selden, recently retired as the chairman, Theater Arts Department, University of California at Los Angeles, now a visiting professor at the University of North Carolina where he is also on the administrative board of the Institute of Outdoor Drama.

The three men are coming to Warren on the invitation of the board of directors of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau. While here they will meet with business people, bankers, tourists industry representatives, educational leaders, historians and communication leaders and will also tour the area to view possible sites for an outdoor amphitheater that would be required should the project be found feasible.

The Institute, founded in 1963 provides complete advisory service for every phase of planning and production of outdoor drama. People with established experience are made available for advice to, and employment with, new groups and communities interested in future productions.

Among those on the administrative and advisory boards of the Institute are Cheryl Crawford, prominent New York play producer, John Gassner, Sterling Professor of Playwriting at Yale University, Andy Griffith, stage and film actor, Betty Smith, playwright, teacher and author, and Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning writer, author of The Lost Colony, The Common Glory, The Stephen Foster Story and others.

Interest in exploring the possibility of establishing a historical drama for this area began a year ago when Henry LeMeur, Charles Tranter, T. K.

Stratton, and Robert Peterson, representing the vacation bureau met in North Carolina with Mr. Sumner and Paul Green.

Historical material and other market facts have already been sent to the Institute for preliminary study for possible story lines. The final report by the Institute will be presented in about three months time.

Dr. Selden was graduated from Yale University in 1922, served on the faculty of the University of North Carolina for thirty-one years, moved to the University of California at Los Angeles in 1959 and retired there in 1966 as professor emeritus.

Dr. Selden has received various honors: a Litt. D from Illinois College, A Guggenheim Fellowship, an election as Fellow of the American Educational Theater Association of which he is a past president. He is an authority on outdoor historical plays and for twenty-one summers he has directed and supervised epic dramas in four states which have drawn through the years more than three million spectators. He is author and editor of eleven books.

Stanley Young graduated from the University of Chicago and holds a M.A. degree from Columbia University. He is a former literary advisor to the Macmillan Company, and editor for Harecourt Brace, managing director and partner in Farrar, Straus and Young book publishers.

Four of his plays have been produced on Broadway; many others have been produced and published around the world and he has received two Rockefeller Foundation Fellowships in creative writing and the John Golden award in playwriting.

Mark Sumner holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of North Carolina and is former general manager of

Uruguay

Faces a Bleak Winter

MONTEVIDEO (AP) — Uruguay imposed severe restrictions on the use of electricity Friday and the troubled country's 2.6 million citizens, already plagued by drought and inflation, faced a dark bleak winter.

President Jorge Pacheco Areco signed an executive order cutting electric power consumption in half starting Monday. It will mean less light in homes, fewer street lights and no electricity for restaurants, cafes and nightclubs after 6 p.m.

The action was taken because lack of rain has lowered the water level in the Rincon del Bonete Dam complex to critical levels. The dam's hydroelectric facilities supply two-thirds of Uruguay's electricity.

The new order will affect almost all Uruguayans, already worried about the coming winter, which begins in June in the Southern Hemisphere.

Police will be authorized to inspect homes and cut off the electricity of those who use more than they are allowed. Electric cook stoves are prohibited and private homes will be restricted to one, 50-candlepower bulb for each room.

The use of electric washing and clothes drying machines is restricted and a housewife can't even sit under a dryer at the hair dresser's until after 6 p.m.

Electric water heating tanks and shower attachments can only be used from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. Two of every three street lights will be turned off as will lights in shop windows and neon signs. Banks and government offices will close an hour early to save electricity.

The power shortage is only the latest blow in crisis-ridden Uruguay. Kerosene, gasoline and oil are scarce because of wildcat strikes in the state oil refineries.

The strikes were a part of the wave of labor unrest in demand of higher wages to meet increased living costs. The country's 220,000 government workers seek salary increases of 80 per cent and threaten more strikes if negotiations deadlock.

Open House Before Prom

Open house and display of the decorated areas for the Junior-Senior Prom at Warren Area High School will be held today from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m., according to Louis Salerno, class advisor. He asked all persons interested in seeing the decorations to observe these specified hours.

Proposed Resolution Would Dissolve City of Jamestown

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — A resolution on the agenda for Monday night's city council meeting could result in dissolving the City of Jamestown and making it part of the Town of Ellicott.

Veteran GOP Councilman Warren Erickson author of the proposal said he is asking for authorization to have Mayor Charles B. Magnuson to appoint a commission to investigate the advantages and disadvantages of the dissolution of Jamestown as a city. When contacted Friday night several councilmen expressed amazement that such a resolution could even get on the agenda. Several said they could not understand the reason for the resolution.

Mayor Magnuson said he doubts whether the resolution will reach the council floor but if it does he will speak against it as being unrealistic.

Erickson said the reverse annexation which would require permission of the state legislature could result in considerable savings to city taxpayers. For one thing, he indicated,

Volunteers Study Firefighting

Firemen of the Grand Valley Volunteer Fire Department are undergoing training every Saturday afternoon to acquire further proficiency in handling all types of fires.

The next session will be held in the Garland Fire Hall today at 1:30 p.m. The meeting, a joint session with the Garland firemen, will feature a movie "Fire Streams" to familiarize the men with the use of different kinds of fire streams and when and how to use them.

The Grand Valley department will hold a meeting at 7 p.m. today in the Grand Valley barbershop. Fifteen minutes before the meeting the recently installed siren will sound. Officers of the department report a remote control switch and timer for the siren have been installed and it will be sounded every second and fourth Saturday at 6:45 p.m. Not only firemen but interested neighbors and citizens are invited to the meeting.

"The fire number to report a fire is 436-3161 and we're ready to fight fires night and day — without charge," a spokesman said.

"Voluntary contributions and pledges and other money raising ventures are our only source of income. When the siren blows it makes no difference whether a home has or has not paid for fire protection," he said.

Priest, Artist

Are Sentenced

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest and an artist, convicted of pouring blood on draft board files last fall, were sentenced Friday to six years in federal prison.

Two hours later, both pleaded innocent at an arraignment to charges of storming another Selective Service office with seven other pacifists last Friday, and seizing and burning draft records.

Immediate appeals of their sentences were filed for the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44-year-old Josephine priest, and Thomas F. Lewis, 28, the artist. Both were returned to the Baltimore County Jail without bond.

A third person convicted in the blood-pouring incident last October was given a three-year term and sentencing of a fourth was postponed.

it would abolish the mayor's job and those of the city councilmen because the area now occupied by the city would be governed by the town board of Ellicott.

A second resolution by Councilman Erickson would request the county board of supervisors to investigate the

Supreme Court Action Major Controversy in Crime Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major controversy left in the wake of the Senate's passage of a broad crime control bill is over provisions aimed at undoing Supreme Court decisions on police interrogation and holding of suspects.

By decisive margins, the Senate went on record in favor of reversing the court's decisions. The votes were 55 to 29, 58 to 27, and 63 to 21.

Proponents said they hope the Senate's action will have an impact on the court, although there is nothing in the bill to prevent the justices from ruling the provisions unconstitutional if they are enacted into law.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told reporters Friday he doesn't know what the impact would be on the court but that he knows what it would be on the public unless something is done.

"Let this situation accumulate," he said, "and you are going to have serious thinking about limiting the tenure of judges."

A constitutional amendment would be required to end the lifetime appointment of Supreme Court justices and other federal judges.

After passage of the crime bill Thursday night, by a 72-4 vote,

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said he has no doubt that the court, if it wishes, could easily reconcile the provisions adopted by the Senate with its past decisions.

Griffin said Congress had shown great restraint and patience so far in the exercise of its powers. He emphasized the striking from the bill provisions that would have stripped the court of jurisdiction to review or reverse any confessions or lineup identifications upheld by a state court.

But Griffin said that in any confrontation with the Supreme Court, Congress has other powers. He said Congress can determine by law the number of justices on the court and also their salaries, although the salary of a sitting justice may not be reduced.

The bill, passed after three weeks of Senate debate, also provides for federal grants to improve local law enforcement, authorize wiretapping by police under court orders, and ban interstate mail order sales of handguns.

Still ahead is a struggle within a Senate-House conference committee for agreement on the final terms of the legislation.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, Democrat, N.Y., who will head the House conferees, has said he would rather have no bill at all than accept the Senate provisions designed to undo Supreme Court decisions.

The court rulings principally at issue are the Mallory, Miranda and Wade cases.

They bar unnecessary delay between a suspect's arrest and arraignment, require a suspect be advised of his right to remain silent and to have counsel present during police questioning, and make lineup identifications inadmissible in evidence unless a suspect was permitted to have counsel present.

Air Force, Navy Search For Two $500,000 'Eggs'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Somewhere in the ocean off Vandenberg Air Force Base are two "eggs" worth $500,000 each and efforts of the Air Force and the Navy so far have failed to find them.

The "eggs" are 2 x 6-inch metal alloy capsules containing radioactive plutonium-238, intended to power instruments on the unmanned Nimbus 3 spacecraft. The Nimbus plunged into the Pacific after its launch rocket veered off course and was destroyed May 18.

Since then as many as five search vessels at a time have fought pounding waves in winds up to 30 knots trying to locate the wreckage in waters as deep as 300 feet.

The spacecraft, estimated to cost $50 million with its booster, fell into the water northeast of San Miguel Island 26 miles offshore and about 150 miles west of Los Angeles.

A spokesman said the only way searchers have of finding it is by lowering hydrophones designed to pick up the "ping" of a sonar device attached to the upper stage of the rocket. So far they haven't heard pings or found debris.

There's a good chance the pinger may have been damaged but searchers will continue to listen for it through the remainder of its designed 10-day life.

The $1 million price tag on the plutonium, reusable if the capsules are recovered, makes the search worthwhile.

Even if found, the capsules will require special handling.

Pittsburgh Area Hit by Floods

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gushing tributaries of the Monongahela River, swollen by week-long rains, poured over their banks Friday, closing some highways and causing minor flooding.

River forecasters said the worst flooding would occur early Saturday. Residents were warned to evacuate furniture and valuables to higher ground ahead of the rising flood waters.

The river was expected to crest eight feet above flood stage at Charleroi, where flood stage is 26 feet, and four feet above at Brownsville and Point Marion, where flood level is 32 and 28 feet respectively.

A portion of Pennsylvania 201 was closed because of flooding and water entered the basements of homes in Fayette City. Minor flooding was reported in Carmichaels.

The Federal-State River Forecasting Service said heavy rains forced the Monongahela to rise sharply Friday and predicted serious flooding in some communities.

State's Republicans Remain Tight-Lipped Over Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—A majority of Pennsylvania's 13 Republican congressmen is remaining tight-lipped about whom they favor among the active candidates for the GOP presidential nomination.

In a survey conducted by the Associated Press, four of the 13 declined comment and four others said only that they support Gov. Raymond P. Shafer as a favorite son.

Of the others, four either endorsed former vice president Richard M. Nixon or said they were leaning toward support of Nixon. One, Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, is backing Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

One who declined to comment publicly said privately he believes Rockefeller has the support of at least eight members of the delegation.

The congressman asked not to be identified, however, saying he's running for re-election and most Republicans in his district favor Nixon.

"I don't dare broadcast it," he said, indicating he as con-

Probe Break-in

Borough Police Sgt. Edward Peterson is continuing an investigation into a break-in sometime early Thursday morning at V & J Restaurant at 601 Pennsylvania ave. E.

Entry was gained by removing a screen and going through a window. Police stated a cash register was removed from the restaurant but contained only a small amount of change. The register, however, is valued at $1,200.

Not Really Stolen

Investigation of a reported stolen car this week revealed no deliberate theft.

Borough police were advised shortly after 5 p.m. Monday that a car owned by Miner Laufenburger, of 785 Cobham Park rd., Warren, had been taken from a parking place at Parish Battery and Electrical Service, 6 Market st.

The car had been removed - by mistake by Midtown Motors.

Ed Group Proposes Changes in Grants

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency reportedly has proposed changes on state scholarship grants to students from families with less than $6,000 income would get priority.

Paul L. Wagner, chairman of the agency's board of directors, confirmed Friday, such a published report.

The Lancaster New Era said the proposed change would mean students from families with income of more than $12,000 would be at the bottom of the priority list for state scholarships.

The change, proposed at an agency meeting Thursday, will be presented to an executive committee Monday, the newspaper said.

Wagner a former state senator from Tamaqua, confirmed the idea of placing students from lower income families on first priority has been proposed. But he said, a final decision will probably be held up until some "trial run" computer projections are made.

Woman Doctor Bomb Victim

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A prominent woman physician was injured seriously Friday when a bomb exploded on a porch as she bent over to pick it up.

Police said the woman, Dr. Frances Schaeffer, 51, apparently was hurt by either a time bomb or a booby trap on a second floor porch at her home where she also had an office.

She was taken to Allentown General Hospital, where she is chief of obstetrics and gynecology. There physicians, including her brother, Dr. Charles Schaeffer, said her wounds "were typical of battlefield injuries." She suffered a compound fracture of the lower left leg, shrapnel wounds and her right hand also was badly damaged.

Dr. Schaeffer had noticed a newspaper lying on the second floor front porch and when she went to retrieve it, it exploded, according to Detective Capt. John Wagner.

A patient waiting in the office reported hearing a loud explosion, and said glass windows and doors were shattered.

Police said some one may have scaled a wall to leave the device or tossed it onto the porch.

Police said on the lawn they found a spring device with a five-cent coin welded to it.

Police could provide no motive for the bombing.

cerned that to align himself publicly with Rockefeller would hurt him politically among Nixon backers.

Other GOP members of the Pennsylvania delegation have the same problem, he said.

Schneebeli's position is no secret, however. He is state co-chairman of a Rockefeller-for-President group.

In an interview, he was particularly enthusiastic about the possibility of a GOP ticket consisting of Rockefeller for president and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California for vice president.

"It would be wonderful," he said. "I think people like the balance it would make."

Backing Nixon are Reps. George A. Goodling, G. Robert Watkins and James G. Fulton.

Rep. Lawrence G. Williams declined to say he endorses the former vice president but added, "I would hope the Republican convention would nominate Nixon."

Watkins said, "I'm supporting Dick Nixon all the way," but said he believes Rockefeller is "running pretty strong."

Goodling said he looks for Nixon to be nominated on the first ballot at the convention and added, "I think he has a better chance."

Rep. James G. Fulton was described as "one of Nixon's strongest backers."

Rep. Edward G. Blester Jr., when asked his choice responded: "You caught me at a bad time. . . I'm trying to sort this thing out."

"My present feeling is that I'll stick with Gov. Shafer right down to the convention," he added.

Reps. Richard S. Schweiker and Edwin D. Eshleman also said simply they are sticking with Shafer. Rep. Robert J. Corbett said: "I'm in favor of the favorite son strategy."

Rep. J. Irving Whalley, one who declined to indicate a preference, commented: "I don't know how anybody could make a decision with all these statements by the candidates."

"I'm still looking at the field," said Rep. Joseph M. McDade. "No comment at this time," said Rep. Albert W. Johnson. "You can't get any commitment out of me," said Rep. John P. Saylor.

Wagner termed the proposal "a change of philosophy" aimed at more adequately serving the most needy students.

The program, now in its third year, awarded scholarships, averaging $800 each, to about 39,000 students this year.

In recent appearances before the House and Senate appropriations committees, Kenneth H. Reher, agency executive director, testified plans were under way to reduce the maximum scholarship from $1,200 to $800 to spread the available funds around more.

It sets up penalties of a $500 fine or a year's imprisonment for the sale, use or possession of such devices. They are defined as any inflammable liquid in a readily breakable container that can be equipped with an igniter.

The act is effective in 60 days from the date of the governor's signature.

Shaffer also signed a measure, effective immediately, that makes it illegal to operate motor vehicles on any public highway or street without front or rear bumpers unless the bumpers were not originally installed on the vehicle.

The act provides penalties of a $25 fine and/or 15 days' imprisonment.

The third bill signed by the governor permits counties to use liquid fuel tax funds for the erection of stop-and-go signal lights, blinkers, or other traffic control devices.

Jury Awards Couple $3,500

A civil jury heard a second case Thursday and found for the plaintiffs, Kenneth E. Loomis and Phyllis A. Loomis, a complaint of trespass.

The jury, with Henry C. Marymont as foreman, awarded the Loomis' $3,500 plus interest.

The complaint stemmed from a tree cutting incident in Sugar Grove township when the defendant, Raymond Morris, while cutting trees on another property crossed over the property line onto the Loomis land.

John H. Stewart was attorney for the plaintiffs with William A. Peifer representing the defendant.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The "Molotov Cocktail" bill became the law of the commonwealth Friday with the signature of Gov. Shafer.

Mart's Trendless Start Moves Into Decent Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—A gradual warming up of investment and speculative demand was apparent Friday as the market moved from a trendless start to a fairly good gain. Trading was active.

Volume was 13.3 million shares compared with 12.85 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones Industrial average rose 2.13 to 895.28.

The very modest rise in the Dow didn't tell the whole story. Of 1,488 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 755 rose and 521 fell. New highs for the year totaled 105 and new lows 22.

The session was marked by the transfer of a large number of big blocks. At the same time, the general public was reported increasingly active in the market, attracted by large gains in moderate-priced stocks on both the New York and American Stock Exchanges.

Although one analyst called the market "neither bullish nor bearish," another said that "the path of least resistance is upward."

The Pesticides Issue

A recent release from Industrial News Review, a media which undoubtedly draws a considerable amount of its advertising revenue from the chemical and related industries, supplies a cartoon for editorial use. It pictures the chemical industry as a teacher pointing to a blackboard on which is written: "Educational Program. Proper use and handling of pesticides." A character representing the public stands with spray can in hand absorbing the message.

As a part of the release, the argument is presented that without pesticides we could not meet our present day food demands or meet the production requirements of the future. Yet in the same paragraph Dr. Warren C. Shaw of the Agriculture Research Service is quoted as saying that pesticides have accounted for only a 10 to 15 per cent increase in farm products since 1940.

The only indication throughout the release that pesticides are highly poisonous chemicals is the statement; "But on the other hand, we must protect all the important values of our environment against the potential hazards of pesticides." And to this end it is suggested that all that is required to make pesticides safe for unrestricted use is "to educate all elements of the public in the proper handling and use of pesticides."

Well, that may be. But it would have to be a far better public education program than we have come up with so far in making our guns, boats, highways, and swimming areas safe for public use. And far more effective than "scare" programs designed to curb our misuse of cigarettes and alcoholic beverages.

In short, when the use of anything calls for education of the public as a condition for its use--you sometimes may as well forget it.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Reagan-Rockefeller

Governor Reagan has been making some splendid speeches lately. I especially like what he said in Chicago about American foreign policy, but I will not tell you what that was until at the end of this column, because I know what newspaper editors know: namely that readers are far less interested in what the presidential candidates are saying, than they are in the political implications of what they are doing.

Buckley

I say "presidential candidate" in referring to Mr. Reagan because, clearly, that is what he is. But in saying so, a distinction needs to be made. The Reagan strategists have reasoned over a long period that Mr. Reagan is a candidate in the nature of things -- as distinguished from a self-made candidate, so to speak. Granted it is possible to defy the nature of things by, let us say, packing one's suitcases and going off to a monastery. But very little short of that will do. Nelson Rockefeller, during the past year or so, said publicly oh maybe eighteen hundred times that he would not run for the presidency. It is even possible that he meant what he said. But what the political scientists refer to as the relationship of forces, dominates the situation. If someone is a) the governor of New York or the governor of California, and if b) he has a national following, and c) if he is identified as the leader of an important part of the spectrum -- then he is available to his party for the presidential nomination. It is one of those ineluctable things in life, and the public acceptance of it is evident in the disposition to put up with the ritual hypocrisies. Nobody makes a serious effort to criticize Rockefeller for saying he wasn't going to run, any more than they criticized Adlai Stevenson, the original ambiguit.

The question is whether the same ineluctable laws would require Ronald Reagan to accept a vice-presidential place alongside a Rockefeller nomination. The situation is different from the pickle that Lyndon Johnson found himself in after the nomination of John Kennedy in Los Angeles. That was fait accompli and the forces of party unity crashed down on Kennedy and Johnson, enough to have made it extremely difficult either for Kennedy to decline to make the offer, or for Johnson to decline to accept it. But in the existing situation, Ronald Reagan would have to support Rockefeller's nomination in order for Rockefeller to be put in a position which required Reagan's designation as vice president. I found myself explaining this to a shrewd listener, whose laconic comment on Reagan's involvement in any plot to make Rockefeller President so as to make himself vice president, was -- "Mortal sin."

That is the theological reading for intentional, premeditated selling out of one's own position for temporal advantage. And I am here to say: it isn't going to happen. However, there will be great efforts made to try to make it happen. Consider the efforts Mr. Rockefeller is making. They are clearly the result of his visible distress at his political impotence. If he does not get the votes of Ronald Reagan, he is

Wormy Chestnut, Knotty Pine

There was a time when worm holes and knots disqualified wood for interior trim and paneling. Only clear material with no blemishes was considered good enough for these purposes. There was still an abundance of select trees to choose from in the virgin forests that covered much of America. The chestnut blight was still confined to Asia, and second-growth white pine, if it occurred, could not compete in the lumber market with virgin white pine.

Stotz

After the chestnut blight swept over the entire range of the American chestnut, leaving the gray skeletons of this valuable tree species standing for decades, a demand for wormy chestnut developed. The tree had built in resistance to rot so that decay-free lumber could be obtained for many years from blight-killed chestnut. When I came to the Allegheny National Forest in 1947, I scaled sound chestnut logs out on timber sales. For many years smaller trees of this species were sold for splitting into grape stake and fence posts, but fewer and fewer trees were found that were large enough, and sound enough, to make acceptable sawlogs.

Today, there is still a demand for wormy chestnut logs for paneling material. A man who is planning to build a new home asked me recently where he could find enough sound, wormy chestnut logs to have custom-sawed into paneling. I could think of no place on the Allegheny National Forest where he could find what he wanted. He was at least fifteen years too late. Any dead chestnut trees that are large enough to furnish paneling are too rotten to be worth hauling to the sawmill.

Another popular native species for rustic paneling is Eastern white pine. This became a threatened species when the white pine blister rust was brought into this country from Europe early in this century. This enemy of five-needled pines has spread from the Eastern states to western white pine forests. Fortunately, spores of this fungus disease require an alternate host plant--ribes. If the ribes are removed from within a specified distance of a stand of white pine, the life cycle of the fungus cannot be completed and the white pine will be saved. Some 28 million acres of forest land in the United States are now under blister rust protection. And so, white pine -- unlike the American chestnut--is not a doomed species. The second-growth white pine forests of the East, that replaced the virgin stands of white pine, produced only limited amounts of knot-free lumber. Knotty lumber became a drug on the market until some enterprising lumberman introduced knotty pine for paneling. Just any old knotty white pine lumber wouldn't do. The size of the knots and their spacing had to be taken into consideration. The knots had to be sound. Loose knots, regardless of size or spacing, could not be tolerated. The acceptance of knots and worm holes in paneling may have paved the way for the old practice among furniture manufacturers of stimulating wear and tear on the surfaces of certain styles of expensive furniture--particularly solid cherry furniture. This "distressed" wood gives the appearance of great age to newly manufactured colonial style furniture. The threat of a timber famine in America no longer exists. The only real scarcity is in quality sawing trees that will yield a high percentage of clear lumber. Our lumber grades still reflect a timber economy that was based upon a seemingly limitless supply of quality old-growth timber. More and more of our lumber can be expected to come from our second-growth forests. The last of the virgin timber is in the West, and the loggers already have their backs to the Pacific Ocean. As long as the public insists upon relatively knot-free lumber for many purposes, when lower grades could be used just as well, they can expect to pay a high price for it in the market place.

Rocky 'After' Reagan

WASHINGTON -- Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York met the other morning with Gov. Ronald Reagan in a New Orleans hotel suite and started political tongues wagging all over the United States. According to reports, Reagan managers were furious that their man had been booked in the same hotel as Rockefeller and were dead set against the meeting, as it would look like a deal had been made between Gov. Reagan and Gov. Rockefeller.

Buchwald

But Rockefeller, who is desperate to stop Richard Nixon, figures the only way he can do it is by hooking up with Reagan and was determined to see the California governor in New Orleans at any cost.

The scene is the sixth floor of the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans. Gov. Rockefeller tiptoes down the hall and stops in front of Gov. Reagan's suite. He knocks. No answer. He knocks again. Still no answer. "Ronnie, it's Nelson. Ronnie, I know you're in there. I just want to speak to you for a minute. At come on, Ronnie, no one will know we met."

The door opens slightly. Reagan peeks out. "Go away. I don't want to be your Vice President."

"I didn't come to talk to you about that, Ronnie. I just wanted to chat with you about our mutual Medicaid problems. Please let me in."

Reagan finally opens the door. Twenty reporters try to follow Rockefeller into the suite.

Reagan, after shoving them all out, says, "What were those reporters doing out there?" "I have no idea," Rockefeller says. "I thought they were with your party."

"There's nobody from the Albany Times Union in my party." "Well, it certainly was a surprise to me when I saw them all standing there, Ronnie. I was hoping to just sneak up there and say hello. You can imagine my surprise when I heard you were in the same hotel as I was."

"I'll bet," Reagan says. "Look, Rocky, I'm an avowed nonavowed presidential candidate and it doesn't look good for me to be meeting with you. Some people might get suspicious and think we were trying to make a deal."

"How could they possibly think that?" Rockefeller says. "After all, what could I possibly offer you that you don't have already?" Silence.

"I'm asking you a direct question, Ronnie."

"At this stage, I'm not prepared to answer," Reagan says. "Gee whiz, Rocky, I was doing fine until you came up here. I'm the only one who is calling for locking all the students up. I don't believe we should promise the minorities anything we can't deliver on, and if the North Vietnamese don't want to talk peace, then we should invade immediately and kick the devil out of them."

"That's exactly what I was thinking, Ronnie. Ideologically there's no gulf between us."

"You're just saying that because I've got the South wrapped up."

"Ronnie, how can you say such a thing? Happy and I are your biggest fans. We have seen 'King's Row' six times on television. We still run 'Knute Rockne' after dinner every night. But I guess Brother Rat is our favorite. I'm not here to make a deal with you."

"Then why did you come?" "You won't believe this Ronnie, but Happy asked me to come up here and get your autograph."

The acceptance of knots and worm holes in paneling may have paved the way for the old practice among furniture manufacturers of stimulating wear and tear on the surfaces of certain styles of expensive furniture--particularly solid cherry furniture. This "distressed" wood gives the appearance of great age to newly manufactured colonial style furniture. The threat of a timber famine in America no longer exists. Strongest-Willed Men

WASHINGTON -- Two of the strongest-willed men in Washington are Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Wayne Morse of Oregon. They are men who disagree on a lot of things publicly but agree on even more things privately. They also have a lot of respect for each other.

When Morse was running for re-election 12 years ago, Lyndon Johnson, then Majority Leader of the Senate, attended a $50 fund-raising luncheon for him and made a brief speech. "When Wayne was a Republican," he said, "he came to Texas to campaign against me. He reminded Texans that under the Constitution they were entitled to two Representatives in the U.S. Senate, but had none."

"One of our Senators, Price Daniel, Wayne told them, 'represents the oil companies. The other Senator, Lyndon Johnson,' Wayne said, 'represents only himself.'"

"But I want Wayne to know that I'm willing to come to Oregon to campaign either for him or against him," concluded Johnson, "which ever will help him most."

Twelve years have passed since then and 24 years since Morse was elected to the Senate. Once again, he is up for renomination in a primary vote next week.

Since their differences of 12 years ago there have been more differences over the war in Vietnam; but with many agreements over labor problems and education, Johnson has called on Morse to act as mediator in five vitally important labor disputes, at least one of which earned Morse the bitter opposition of the Machinists, though the respect of most other labor leaders.

The President has also called on Morse to pilot his education legislation--the most far-reaching in American history--through the Senate.

Last December, after Morse passed the education bill by an overwhelming vote, the President called him to the White House to thank him.

"I want you to know," he announced to assembled Senators, "that I don't engage in primaries. But I'm a Morse man. Out in Oregon they say there will always be Wayne Morse."

-- CAMPAIGN SPENDING --

If a committee of Pulitzer Prize winners undertakes a scrutiny of big spending in elections, one book it should read is "Kennedy Campaigning" by Murray D. Levin, a professor of government at Boston University. We also recommend this to those who are interested in free elections. It may be a difficult book to purchase. The Kennedy family almost succeeded in suppressing it altogether and there are only a few copies at the bookstore.

They threatened to sue the Beacon Press and brought terrific pressure through contributors to the Unitarian Universalist church (which owns

YOUR COUNTY AGENT

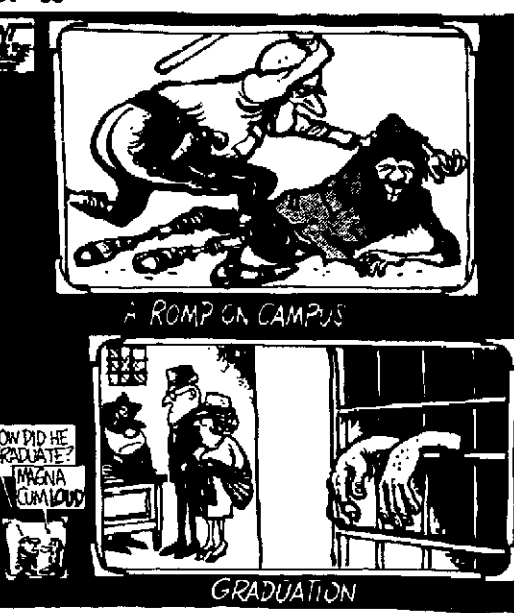

All over the country the young folks are graduating from grade schools to Junior Highs, from there to Senior Highs, and from there to Colleges, and from there to more advanced degree work, etc. I read the other day where the college "anti's" are walking out on some graduation speakers but I'm happy to report that I attended the sixth grade recognition dinner at Irvinedale school this week and everyone stayed until the speeches were finished. No one threw any bricks or upset any cars, no banners were displayed, and even the graduating class seemed happy. All the parents and children enjoyed an oversized smorgasbord meal. The tables were fixed all fancy with flowers and favors and frilly things. We started almost on time for such an event, and very rapidly went through the invocation, memories, PTA officer recognition, tribute to the teachers, a special recognition for a retired bus driver, a new picture on the wall was dedicated, a short speech by the principal, and then the kids sang three songs. And thus ended it all for another year.

What I really liked was the singing. First we heard "O, the deacon went down in the cellar to pray" and then "Skeeters am a hummin on the honey-suckle vine" and a really nice song to finish up by, called "Here's to America." If you can imagine it, at least one school in the country is still teaching patriotic songs and I couldn't be more pleased. We's just not the "in" thing to do these days to say anything good about this nation. But it would be fine if this very lovely little sixth grade song sung to the tune of "Fair-est Lord Jesus" could be aired on TV following the news each evening.

Here's the lyrics and of course just writing the words down can't possible do justice to it. It takes little boys, standing stiff with shirtilins poking out, and little girls in "hose" and "lace", if you please, to really sing out on this. Well, try humming it anyway as you read --

RICHARD HARATINE

Can't Smoke Shafer Out

HARRISBURG--Governor Shafer clings desperately to his favorite son candidacy despite all efforts to smoke him out. In charge of lighting the fires is Senator Hugh Scott, once national Republican chairman and no bush leaguer in the art of presidential campaign politics.

Whatever his true personal feelings about the contending candidates, Shafer has carefully avoided showing his hand. He has done nothing -- or almost nothing -- overt in behalf of either Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller.

Yet, despite his gracious reception here for Nixon, Pennsylvania's favorite son has become enmeshed in a series of rumors and incidents which lash him to the political fortunes of Nelson Rockefeller.

One of the boldest of the rumors was picked up along Senator Scott's grapevine in Washington and published in the Chicago Daily News, of all places. It said what no Pennsylvania pundit has been able to say with any verification, that Shafer is prepared to throw his support behind Rockefeller. The net effect of this published rumor has been to send it winging back into Pennsylvania with ring of authority.

Then Scott, in his amiable way, got on the television last week and flatly stated that "every major leader" in Pennsylvania favors Rockefeller.

Either Scott was carrying tales out of the smoke-filled rooms, or he was engaging in a massive insinuation about Shafer's true position. "The only thing I have ever said," countered Shafer, "is that I felt the majority of our delegation preferred Nelson Rockefeller to Richard Nixon, but that there was no anti-Rockefeller or anti-Nixon sentiment among any of them."

A week earlier, in Pittsburgh, Shafer said: "These are two excellent gentlemen contesting for the nomination. Both of them--either of them--will do a good job."

By preserving his favorite son status, Shafer nourishes a diminishing hope that the vice-presidential nomination might come his way. Thus, in late April, he appeared to have convinced Nixon that raiding the Pennsylvania delegation would be folly. Nixon responded by saying he wouldn't invade Shafer's delegation unless other people did--meaning Rockefeller.

But, said Nixon, "if efforts are made to bust it up, we would have to react." When Nixon was in Harrisburg, Shafer gave him the full VIP treatment, the run of the house, including a preposterous formal hearing before a session of the General Assembly. Shafer's introductions of Nixon were warm, but hardly idolatrous. The next day, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania's favorite son identified Rockefeller as having "the wisdom, patience and maturity essential" to seek "permanent peace and deeper human understanding between men."

All of this dialogue has conspired to panic the Nixon forces in Pennsylvania. Arlen Adams, the Philadelphia lawyer who serves as Nixon's "official" contact in Pennsylvania, has remained silent. But the Nixon forces have sent an executive director of the Pennsylvania Citizens for Nixon abroad with the message that Scott is trying to "crack up" Shafer's favorite son candidacy in behalf of Rockefeller.

The panic started when Nixon's people got wind of a survey that purportedly shows 45 Pennsylvania delegates favoring Rockefeller, 17 favoring Nixon, and two of the 64 for Ronald Reagan.

So all bets are off. Nixon, in Harrisburg in late April, pledged to "respect the neutrality" of Pennsylvania's delegation. But he also served notice he would "retaliate" should "anyone else" attempt to create "civil war" or "cannibalism" in Pennsylvania's Republican ranks. Who else but Neise?

The Outdoor Club

When Bill Rusin suggested to me that he thought an outdoor club would be a great thing in Warren County, giving residents an opportunity that existed for either individual, group or family participation, I was inclined to agree. When we held an organizational meeting in the YMCA about 18 persons turned out and after some discussion it was decided that the best way to determine if any real enthusiasm for the idea existed was to have a couple of outings and see what kind of an interest could be generated.

Well, the first outing was a nature walk through Game Lands 29 led by Bill Highhouse and Harris Johnson. About 25 persons participated on a rain-threatening day, so the event was considered a success.

This led to the announcement that another short walk would explore Akeley swamp the following Sunday. Once again Harris Johnson was stuck with the chore of leading the group, mostly because we hadn't yet got around to working up any kind of an organization, and persons with a wide knowledge of the interesting things that can be seen in a place like the swamp aren't too awfully plentiful.

Harris carried off the assignment with flying colors and from reports I have had (Rusin and I were out of town) the 65 persons who braved a stormy day to tramp through the swamp had a reasonably good time.

So I guess the point is proven that folks in the Warren area really are interested in seeing something like an outdoor club functioning. A club that would be general in organization, but specific in catering to all the varying activities true outdoorists are apt to consider as their particular "piece of cheese." Which means that persons with a wide variety of interests must be brought into the club to represent the type of outdoor activity they personally prefer and bring them into association with others holding similar interests.

It is a certain fact that the club cannot reach its full potential if the outings are to be confined to nature walks. However, these are important in that many persons, especially families with younger children, can participate without undue exertion. And I am certain such persons as Harris Johnson, Bill Highhouse, Ted Grisez, Ward Sharp, and perhaps our forest ranger friend Larry Stotz will keep this division moving along throughout the fall and summer months.

So now the real need is to get the club branching out to attract the more hardy outdoorists who would be interested in long distance hiking, back-packing into some of our more remote areas, canoe trips, primitive camping or any similar activity that would be of interest to others, be they many or few. This of course presents a further need -- a need for persons willing to accept the responsibility of seeing that these special interests are promoted and programmed so that others will have an opportunity to have a try at them.

What I would especially like to see is an overnight hike into one of the boat-to-camping areas on the Kinzua Dam organized for the outdoor element that likes to rough it a little bit. (Not that I'm too anxious to try it myself when I think what sleeping on the ground could do to my arthritis, but because I remember with a lot of pleasure the flickering flames of a hundred campfires of the past and the fellowship I enjoyed with a host of trail pals while swapping tales and drinking coal-black coffee from an empty bean can. It's the one pleasure in life that shouldn't be missed.

This isn't the type of things that would appeal to everybody, that's for sure. But with all of the opportunities that exist in our local woodlands there just has to be some type of outdoor activity that will appeal to even the most selective outdoorist, and through association in the club this selective person should be able to find others with similar tastes to join his "gang."

Further than this, it is hoped as the club gets going and a wide range of activities are planned the vacationers who come to Kinzua Country will be participating in our programs. These visitors are a lot of nice people and getting to know them should add a bonus of pleasure for the club membership.

The Allegheny Outdoor Club is going to be a success. . . Of this I am absolutely sure. And I am just as certain that the person who gets active in it from the start is going to have the time of his or her life once we get the thing swinging a full circle. So I would like to see as many as possible interested persons on hand Monday evening at the YMCA when an attempt to shape up the summer program will be made.

The meeting will be in the Blue Room at 7:30 p.m.

American Girls Beat French Girls in Tennis

PARIS (AP) — Nancy Richey and Mary Ann Eisel carried the U.S. women's tennis team into the semifinals of the Federation Cup Friday by squeezing out a doubles victory over France in the third and decisive match.

Tied 1 after splitting the singles, Miss Richey, from San Angelo, Tex., and Miss Eisel, from St. Louis, wrapped it up by defeating Mrs. Rosa Darnon and Janine Lieftrich 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 before an excited French partisan crowd at the Roland Garros Stadium.

The American girls seeking their third straight Federation Cup triumph, play The Netherlands Saturday, Australia and Britain clash in the other semifinal, with Australia favored.

Foster Knocks out Tiger Is New Light-Heavy King

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Foster, whose backers guaranteed Dick Tiger $100,000 for a shot at the title, won the World Light Heavyweight crown Friday night by knocking out the 38-year-old champ in 2:05 of the fourth round.

Foster had been riding along behind a stinging left jab, peppering his squat opponent at ease until he unloaded a left hook that flattened Tiger for the count.

It was the first time in Tiger's 77-bout career that he had been stopped. He had been down only once previously in a bout with Emile Griffith.

Referee Mark Conn counted out Tiger as he lay on his back, still dazed by the mighty left hook that the rangy Washington slugger landed.

Foster, an 11 to 5 favorite, had the advantage of youth, height and reach over the old man who is anxious to return to his native Biafra which is engaged in a war of independence from Nigeria. Tiger is a lieutenant in the Biafran Army.

It was several minutes before Tiger left the ring under his own power, to the cheers of the crowd in Madison Square Garden.

A Washington wrestling promoter, Vince McMahon, had guaranteed Tiger $100,000 to get the match for Foster. It probably cost him money. His 60 per cent of the gate, Tiger's 40 per cent and his own 20 per cent probably did not come to that figure.

Foster was out in front on all three official cards at the knockout. Referee Mark Conn and Judge Tony Castellano had it 3-0 and Judge Artie Alda 2-1, giving the fight to Tiger.

The A.P. card was 3-0 for Foster. It was a strange looking fight between the 6-foot-3½ Foster and the 5-foot-8 Tiger. Foster, 29, weighed 173½, Tiger 168.

Shuffled around in the background while others got a chance to fight for the title, Foster once quit the ring for a year. He made good with a vengeance when he finally got his shot.

The towering Foster, who looked more like a basketball player than a fighter, kept stinging Tiger with long left jabs. Tiger, who usually comes on late was unable to get untracked.

Tiger threw only a few flurries, trying to get inside to the body, but was unable to reach the big fellow with any consistency.

It was the ninth straight victory for Foster since he lost a decision to heavyweight Zora Foley in 1965. His record for 34 pro starts now is 30-4. This was his 24th knockout. Tiger now is 58-16-3 for 77 bouts.

Tiger was making the third defense of the crown he won from Jose Torres, Dec. 16, 1966. He previously held the world middleweight title on two different occasions.

Foster had been beating a steady tattoo on Tiger's face with his jab for a minute and a half of the fourth when Tiger dug a right to the body and twisted his foe around near the ropes.

Shortly after they broke, Foster dropped in the left hand that ended his long quest for a championship.

The bout was seen on a limited home television network but was blacked out in New York.

Fourteen Warren Co. Athletes In Championships at PSU Today

Fourteen Warren County athletes will be competing for State Championship titles today at Penn State University in University Park Stadium. Thirteen athletes will represent this area while one golfer enters the state competition. The Eisenhower Knights will be sending the most boys to the annual spring championships with a team of ten men competing on the track and in the field. Warren enters three Dragons in the track and field division and one "swinger" in golfing competition. The Youngsville Eagles boast of three boys competing for state titles.

Representing Ike will be the two-mile relay team of Andy Bosko, Gary Olson, Tom Engstrom and Dick Hale. Martin Hoffner will compete in his specialty, the high jump, and the Blue and Gold pole vaulter, Gary Dalrymple, will vie for state honors.

All Ike athletes will be competing in Class B along with Youngsville while Warren participants in Class A competition. Entries for the Dragons will include Rick Nasman in the pole vault, Dave Cobb in the mile and Eddie O'Neil in the javelin. Youngsville qualified Gary Wood in the 440, Conrad Danielson in the long jump and Marty Yucha in the triple jump. The only golfer from this area to enter will be Matt Voigt. Jim Simons the PIAA champion in 1966 heads the field of golfers. The Saxonburg Knocks are joined by Dennis Steranchak of Allerdice who leads in the city of Pittsburgh.

In comparing district times and distances we find that all twelve meets were held under cold, rainy conditions. However, some rather strong performers did come through. The best time recorded in the mile run was a 4:26.7, run by Frank Costello of Marple-Newton high school in District 1, Class A. A distance of 198-feet 5-inches was also the best javelin throw, recorded in District 1, Chuck Eckman hurled the spear for Upper Merion. Pole vaulter Joe Steffie from North Hampton leaped 14-feet 1-inch setting the best mark in District 11.

Class B competition appeared to be just as tough as Class A as many of the district times and distance equaled or were superior to the upper division. District 3 captured honors in the two mile relay with a time of 8:08.1 Manning Township High recorded the time. District 3 also recorded the best discus throw as Scott Teitler of Palmyra heaved the plate 155-feet. High jumpers were pretty close, however Hanzak of Wyalusing leaped 6-feet 2 1/2-inches for a new district four record and the best leap in competition among the twelve districts. District three once more proved powerful as Jeff Keim of Camp Hill flew 22-feet 9 1/2-inches in the long jump for top honors. Mechanicsburg boasted of the best triple jumper as Mike Stull leaped 45-feet 4 3/4-inches also in district three. The best vault in Class B was 12-feet 9-inches, hit by two athletes. Steve Gelfich of Palmyra recorded this mark in District 11 and Cliff Brown hit this mark in District 3 for Middletown. The PIAA golf, tennis and track championships will be at stake today. The first and second round of both the golf and tennis tournaments were staged yesterday at 2:00 with the finals set at 9:00 this morning. Both the PIAA Class A and Class B track and field titles will be decided today with the preliminaries starting at 9:30 a.m. and the finals at 1:00 p.m.

Annual Ike Junior-Hi Intra-squad Meet Held

The annual intra-squad junior high track meet was held at Eisenhower high this past week as the experience of the ninth graders pulled them through to victory.

Arnie Stewart, ninth grade, was a triple winner in the meet as he placed first in the 100 yd. dash, first in the low hurdles and ran a leg of the victorious 880 relay team which set a new Ike junior high mark.

The junior high field events proved tough also as Bob Hagberg, Bob Peterson and Bob Hoffner fought it out for the top places in the shot put, discus and javelin.

Royal Lohnes captured both the triple and long jumps. Lohnes leaped 15-feet 8 3/4-inches in the long and 36-feet 1/2-inch in the triple. Jamie Nesmith once more reigned as pole vault "king" as he leaped 10-feet 3-inches to clinch the victory. Eighth grader Dave VanOrd proved to be tough in the pole vault also as he placed second in competition.

Two Ike relay marks were broken in the meet as a new time of 1:46.8, was set in the 880 relay and a time of 4:08.9 was run in the mile relay. Royal Lohnes, Arnie Stewart, Dave Brown and Ron Kitchell ran the 880 victory.

Voigt Has 77 At State Match

Matt Voigt, Warren Dragon golfer, shot a 77 Friday to finish among the top 15 in the State High School Golf Tournament. The tourney is being held at Pennsylvania State University.

Because of the weather, contestants played 18 holes instead of 36. There was no cut and the entire field of 81 golfers is expected to play the final 18 holes today.

Twelve districts are represented in the tournament. Joe Shantz, Warren Area High golf coach, accompanied Matt to the match. Shantz said Denny Satschre of Erie shot a 71, while John Lanier of Erie shot a 74.

Matt qualified for the state tourney when he finished in the top six in District 10 golf play.

Prisuta Switches

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Steve Prisuta, head football coach at nearby Chief Logan High School, announced Friday he has accepted the head coaching job at Phillipsburg Osceola. Prisuta, in 6 years here, directed the Chief Logan teams to 35-31-1 record. His best teams were in 1963 (8-1-1) and 1964 (8-1). At Phillipsburg, he succeeds Raymond (Bud) O'Brien.

Rain Cancels Baseball Test

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — An experimental baseball game to test a rules change suggested by a Penn State professor was rained out Friday.

A spokesman for the Nittany Lion baseball team said the scheduled intersquad game has been postponed indefinitely.

Dr. Ivan L. Preston, assistant professor of journalism, has proposed a rule revision which he said would result in more runs, thus making the game more interesting.

"When a baserunner is caught he must pay two penalties — he's wiped off the base paths,

Redlegs Open Home Schedule

The Warren Redlegs will open Grape Belt League play against the Forestville Indians Sunday afternoon. Game time will be 2 p.m. at War Memorial Field.

The Redlegs are now being sponsored by Greenwald's Wrecking. The team will have a practice session at War Memorial Field at 9 a.m. today.

and his team is charged with an out," Preston said.

Under Preston's proposal, the offensive manager would have the choice of removing the runner with no out being charged, or taking the out, and returning the runner to the last base touched safely.

GOLFING WITH Arnold Palmer

Golf's best! Million Dollar P.G.A. Winner

QUICK WEIGHT SHIFT BUILDS POWER

The golfer who has active legs is likely to be a long-ball hitter.

At the top of the backswing, the good golfer shifts about 20 per cent of his weight onto his right instep. This means that at the top he carries about 70 per cent of his total weight on his right foot (illustration #1).

Then comes a quick return of this weight to the left foot (illustration #2). It all takes

By shifting his weight quickly, the golfer causes a further stretching of the muscles that lie between his lowered left heel and his still-raised hands. All this stretching is later released as power when his clubhead enters the hitting area.

36 HOUSES FOR SALE

NORTH WARREN Save money by painting & decorating this house yourself. Owner has reduced it to $12,000 for a quick sale. It has been previously FHA approved. Terms as low as $450.00 down and $105.00 per month will buy. Good solid 2 story construction with three bedrooms, gas furnace, low taxes.

STARBRICK - Lovely 2 bed room home, situated on a large wooded lot, near town but still secluded, just right for a family with one child or a retired couple. The large living room has a woodburning fireplace and the modern kitchen will make your house work a dream.

RUSSELL - If you are looking for a sound investment and a project, take a look at this building. It now has three apartments, a barber shop and a store room. Present income is $155.00 per month, with the store room vacant. The store room could easily be converted to a fourth apartment and would raise the income to about $210.00 per month. Asking $13,500.

SOCIAL Wanderings by Marion Honhart

ANYONE WISHING TO HELP THE WHS CLASS OF '58 decorate for the August 24th reunion dinner-dance is asked to contact Dennis Steele at 723-9739. The affair is to be held in the Knights of Columbus and will begin with a cocktail hour at 5:30, picture taking at 6:30, and a Swiss Steak dinner served at 7, catered by the Lewis Catering Service - - - It has been requested by the committee that reservations be made by Saturday, June 1st. Send your information blank, plus fee, to Sandy Burke Ranson, 21 Main street, North Warren. The "Floogle Street Five" band has been engaged for dancing. Besides dancing, an after dinner program is planned with a few surprises the committee feels certain everyone will enjoy. For additional information call Mrs. Ranson at 723-5107, or, Joan Dunham Gerarde at 726-0509.

A NOTE OF GRATITUDE signed by the Rev. Harold West, chaplain, Migrant Ministry of Potter County, was received by the First Lutheran Church. The note addressed to Miss Harriet E. Bartow, church secretary, read as follows: "Dear Madam, I received the shipment of cartons from Church Women United of Warren and would like very much for you to convey our thanks to the people and churches for their support to the Ministry to Migrants in Potter Co."

GIRLS - - - Tie a string around your little finger to remind you that the annual Welcome Wagon Club's dinner-dance at the Jackson Valley Country Club on June 1st, is just around the corner. The last day for reservations is today! There is a choice of either New York Strip Steak at $5.50 per person, or, Stuffed Porkchops at $3.50 per person. Dinner will be served at 6:30 and the band will be there later in the evening for your dancing enjoyment - - - Also, numerous beautiful centerpieces will be given away to lucky couples. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Ronald Simonsen, 723-6858; Mrs. Peter Horne, 726-1086; Mrs. Richard Cowles, 723-1932; Mrs. John DiPierro, 723-4882. Don't forget - - - this is the final day they will be available!

MINIATURES: The Rosary Making Club of Warren is meeting on Monday evening at 7:30 in the downstairs social rooms at St. Joseph School. All Catholic women interested in participating in this volunteer work for Vietnam are welcome to join. Meetings are once a week.

The Golden Age Society will hold its Memorial Meeting on Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the YWCA. All deceased members of this past year will be remembered at this time. (Bring cup and spoon for the social time.)

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The person who wrote that millions of American housewives are largely responsible for the shortage of domestic help hit the nail squarely on the head. I have done housework for 20 years and I'd like to add a few words.

It's not only the ridiculous wages women pay household help, it's what they expect in the way of services. Some women who hire housekeepers don't know that mowing grass, raking leaves, washing the car, putting on and removing screens, shoveling snow, nursing care, shortening hems and sleeves are not housework. Neither is chauffeuring kids, repairing plumbing and shampooing the dog.

What some women expect a maid to do is unbelievable, but that's not the worst of it. The way they treat domestic help is nothing short of insulting.

I worked in a place where the woman of the house complained so bitterly about the cost of food I felt guilty every time I ate a mouthful. Madame used to put notes on things in the icebox, such as "Leave this salami alone, Irma, it's for lunch tomorrow." That same evening they'd have three couples in and drink up $30 worth of Scotch.

So please tell your vast reading audience that if they are having a hard time finding domestic help, it's largely because they didn't treat help right when they had it. I know because I quit housework seven years ago and I'd starve before I'd go back to it. — L.L.

DEAR L.L.: I received a mountain of mail from former housekeepers who said the same thing. You said it best. Thanks for writing. If there's another side to this story, I'd like to hear it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was married last year to a boy I grew up with. He was very set in his ways but I was sure I could live with his stubbornness. I do love him, but I need some advice on a serious problem.

My grandmother made her home with us when Grandpa died. I was 11 at the time and Grandma was just wonderful to us kids. Now that I am married and have a little bungalow of my own I have invited Grandma to come visit us for a week. She lives 200 miles away. We have a lovely guest bedroom and adjoining bath and she wouldn't be in the way at all.

My husband told me yesterday he can't stand old people and if Grandma accepts the invitation he is going fishing with his buddies and it will be considered his summer vacation. This means the vacation we planned together is off.

When I told him I thought his attitude was disgraceful he said, "Everyone has a pet hate and old people happen to be mine." Please tell me what to do, Ann. — NELL

The Halls Of Ivy

DENNIS C. PAPALIA

The 93rd annual Spring Commencement of Indiana University of Pennsylvania will be held this Sunday at 2:30 in the Miller Stadium. Among the graduates will be Dennis C. Papalia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Papalia of Hill street, Warren.

The 1964 graduate of Warren Area High School will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in Education, certified to teach secondary mathematics. While at school, Mr. Papalia was active in the Math Club and Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity. He did his student teaching last fall at Butler Senior High School in Butler, Penna.

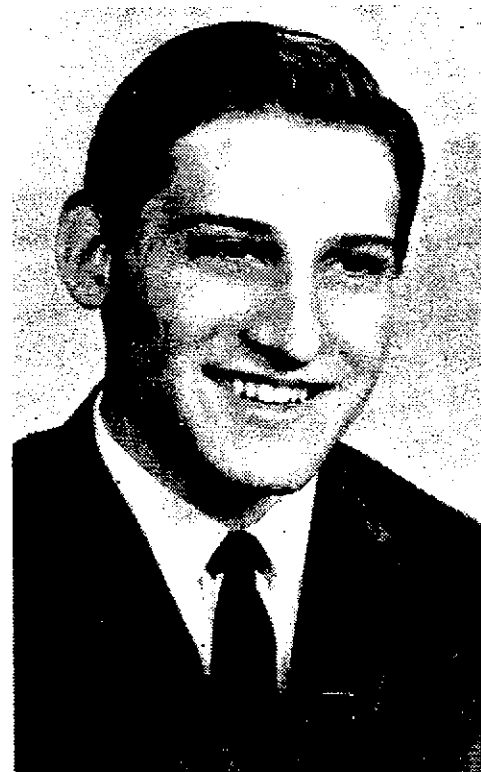

Resigns; To Leave For U.S. Marine OTS At Quantico

Mrs. Ervine N. Branch, executive director of the YWCA, has announced with regret the resignation of Miss Carolyn J. Schaeffer as Y-Teen Director of the local association.

Miss Schaeffer, a graduate of the State University College of Buffalo, and a former elementary school teacher, has been accepted as a candidate for admission to the Officers' Training School of the U. S. Marines, and will be leaving Warren June 1, in order to report to Quantico, Virginia on June 18.

DEAR NELL: So he has a pet hate and it happens to be old people? What does he think will happen to him when HE gets old? Will he ask someone to shoot him?

Your husband has a lot of growing up to do. Tell him you hope Grandma accepts your invitation and if he wants to go fishing to go.

BUDD FRANKLIN NEIDIG

Budd Franklin Neidig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Budd E. Neidig, R. D. No. 1, Bear Lake, will be among the graduates at Slippery Rock State College this Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Neidig attended Northumberland County Schools and was a 1964 graduate of Eisenhower High School.

CURTIS AMIL CARLSON

Curtis Amil Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ross Carlson of 213 N. Irvine street, is among those receiving degrees at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, on Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in Seiberling Gymnasium. Mr. Carlson will receive a Bachelor of Science degree.

President Names Chairmen

Mrs. Virginia Hohman, recently installed president of the Zonta Club of Warren, has announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen for the coming year: Fellowship and Attendance, Hazel Lewis; Finance, Beatrice Hoffer; Inter-City, Virginia Donaldson; International Relations, Myrl Lawson; March of Dimes, Helena Iseman; Membership, Dorothy Holyfield; Program, Elizabeth Currie; Public Relations, Ursula Johnson; Service, Martha Topper; Scholarship, Garnet Allen; and Status of Women, Marian Sleeman.

Serving with Mrs. Hohman this year are the following officers: vice president, Alberta Jackson; treasurer, Mary Gordon; secretary, Edith Morley; and directors, Garnet Allen, Ella Youngquist, Dorothy Holyfield, and Helena Iseman.

At the dinner meeting which took place Thursday evening at the Blue Manor, special guest speaker was J. R. Rohleder, public relations department of The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. His topic had to do with data communications. Mr. Rohleder, by using closed-circuit TV, electrocardiograph equipment and other electronic apparatus, demonstrated the Bell System's role in transmitting millions of bits of data, including charts and drawings over telephone lines.

Zontians observed how a heart specialist can see the graphic heartbeat of a patient who is hundreds of miles away while he talks to the patient's doctor on the telephone.

Mr. Rohleder also explained how payrolls, inventories and other large amounts of statistics are changed to punchholes so they can be stored by punched cards, paper tape and magnetic tape. The transmission of this data over long distances by The Bell System will soon be more common than the transmission of voice, and speeds of over two million words per minute will be routine.

Mr. Rohleder informed his listeners that "Man's total knowledge will double every five years in the next decade, thus making data language the most expeditious way to accumulate, sort and use this explosion of information." The information explosion is colorfully explained during his talk.

ALTAR SOCIETY INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

At its Thursday night meeting, St. Joseph's Altar Society officially installed the new officers for the 1968-69 session. Pictured here, they are: (l to r) Mrs. George Krumm treasurer;

Local Minister Attending Boston Baptist Convention

The Rev. Howard R. Faulkner, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Mrs. Faulkner have left for Boston, Mass., where they will attend the sixty-first annual meeting of the American Baptist Convention. The convention takes place in War Memorial Auditorium, Boston, from May 29 to June 2.

Approximately 8,000 delegates and visitors from 46 states, including Hawaii and Alaska, as well as Puerto Rico, are expected to attend the meetings to be held in the War Memorial Auditorium, May 29-June 2.

The convention theme is "Good News for Modern Man." Dr. Robert C. Campbell, of Covina, Calif., program committee chairman, said that American Baptists can relate to their own colonial history, to the academic community, and to the Roman Catholic fellowship in the Boston area.

The Rev. Dr. L. Doward McBain, president of the American Baptist Convention, and pastor of the First Baptist Church, Phoenix, Ariz., will deliver the keynote address Wednesday evening at the opening session. Thursday evening the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, Roman Catholic Bishop of Rochester, will speak; Friday afternoon, Dr. Foy Valentine, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention's Christian Life Commission, will be the speaker; Friday evening's program will feature Dr. Charles Willie, chairman of the sociology department at Syracuse University, prominent Negro layman of the Episcopal Church, who will speak on "Religion and the Crisis in Urban America." A Methodist pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. Wallace Hamilton, of St. Petersburg, Fla., will give the address Saturday evening.

Morning sessions of the convention will open with Bible study led by a famous biblical scholar, Dr. James S. Stewart, former moderator of the Church of Scotland.

Special music will be provided by the choir of All the People's Church, by the Keuka College Chorale, and various soloists. On Thursday and Friday mornings, there will be panel discussions. Thursday, "Technology and Modern Man" with Dr. Harvey Cox, of Harvard Divinity School; Dr. Carl F. Henry, editor of Christianity Today; and the Rev. George D. Younger, member of the staff of the American Baptist Convention.

Friday's topic — "Whither American Baptists?" will involve President McBain as moderator; Dr. Robert T. Handy of Union Theological Seminary; the Rev. William F. Keucher of the Kansas Baptist Convention; Dr. Edwin H. Tuller, general secretary of the denomination; and Baptist layman Dr. Harold E. Stassen, lawyer, statesman, and a 1968 peace candidate for President of the United States.

American Baptist women will meet in a special pre-convention session on Wednesday morning and afternoon May 29, and the annual meeting of the American Baptist Ministers Council will be held on the same day.

Miss Jeanie K. Sherman, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Timber Lake, S.D., will make history by the fact that she is the first woman ever selected to preach the convention sermon at the Sunday morning worship service. The popular annual missionary dedication service will be held Sunday night.

Pine Grove PTA Has Installation Ceremonies

The Pine Grove PTA meeting was held in the Russell school cafeteria Tuesday evening with President Clair Cable presiding and Mrs. Lee Yaegle giving devotions. Mrs. Herbert Swanson and Mrs. Francis Spicer were appointed auditing committee.

Mrs. Earl Nobles, vice president of the Warren County Council PTA, installed the officers for next year — President, Mr. Cable; vice president, Mrs. Clarence Carlson Jr.; secretary, Mrs. John Stewart; treasurer, Mrs. Douglas Smith, Jr.

The home room banner and attendance award was won by Mrs. Eloise Brown's third grade room.

The program was announced by Mrs. Donald Cable as follows: Steven Cable, a piano solo — "The School's On Fire"; Debbie Case, tap dance; Sherry Himes and Rachel Stanton, vocal duet "Playmates"; and the Eisenhower Lancer's Drill Team, Ronnie Barrett, Ronna Anderson, Debbie Morgan, Kathy Loomis, gave a demonstration.

Joan Gray sang with guitar accompaniment, a folk song

Grange News

Gettysburg — More than 400 Grange officials, representing a statewide membership of 63,000, will attend the 45th State Grange Leadership School at Gettysburg College, June 25-27, according to Mrs. Arthur W. Christman of Bowmanstown, state lecturer.

Mrs. Christman will be director of the school, the second to be held on the Gettysburg campus. In addition to general sessions the school will feature four sets of workshops for lecturers, chairmen of women's activities, youth leaders, and junior leaders.

All sessions, Mrs. Christman stated, will focus on home and community interests with a view to fostering wholesome family life, stronger Grange programs, and responsive leadership throughout rural Pennsylvania.

State Master John W. Scott, Harrisburg, will keynote the three-day event with an address on "Rewind, Respark, Rekindle" at the opening session.

The Rev. Clarence R. Rahn, Temple, will be speaker at the annual banquet. J. Collins McSparran, Harrisburg, former state master, will preside.

Attention will be directed to the Grange's future at a panel discussion the final day with Mrs. Scott as Moderator.

Panelists will be three National Grange officials, William A. Brake, Haslett, Mich., lecturer; Mrs. Agnes Ingwersen, Leroy, Kan., junior superintendent, and Harry A. Graham, Washington, legislative representative; also State Master Scott and State Overseer A. Wayne Readinger, Fleetwood, R. D. 1. Readinger will address the closing assembly on "It's In Our Hands."

Devotions at the leadership conference will be conducted by the State Chaplain, Rev. James Gold. A Vesper Service will be conducted the first evening by Rev. John Vannorsdall, Chaplain, Gettysburg College.

A fashion show to be conducted by Mrs. Marian Harbaugh, Biglerville, will be narrated by Mrs. Charles W. Davis, Jr., of West Chester.

The Watson Grange Home Extension group met with Mrs. E. R. McLaughlin recently. Twenty members, three visitors and seven children were present. Mrs. Kirk Beck and Mrs. Ray Mickelson prepared lunch for everyone while demonstrating blenders.

Several quilt and quilt patterns were shown and discussed for the next meeting's program, to be held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Hollabaugh on Wednesday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m.

*"Let's talk
dry cleaning"*

By HOWARD JARVIS

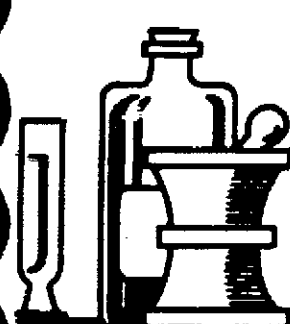

Lightweight summer clothes have proven a boon to man... especially to a working man who has to wear a suit all or part of a hot day.

And many of the fabrics developed by manufacturers in recent years have added built-in bonuses: they resist wrinkling and staining to keep their "fresh pressed" look longer. A word of warning, however: regular cleaning is still necessary for your summer clothing. Even when a coat still looks pressed and the trousers retain their crease, they may need to be cleaned. Normal stains and soiling still occur and these should not be left in to attack the fabric or become too deeply imbedded. And perspiration especially should not be left in the garment.

Such popular summerweight fabrics as silks and silk combinations are especially vulnerable to perspiration. You may not see the deterioration of the fabric caused by perspiration, but it will show up as soon as the garment is cleaned. This is a case where what you don't see CAN hurt you.

Summer or winter, regular cleaning is the best way to preserve your clothing so that it will last longer, look better.

Lutherans Seek Permission To Divide Into Two Units

BUCK HILL FALLS, PA. (AP) — The Eastern Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, climaxing more than a year of preparation and two days of debate, voted Wednesday to seek permission to divide into two new units. The vote was 431-368.

The proposal will be submitted to the biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America in Atlanta, Ga., June 19-25. Traditionally, the parent body has acted favorably on synodical requests regarding size and territorial boundaries.

The division would run along the northern boundaries of Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties to establish a separate synod for the five-county metropolitan Philadelphia area. The second new unit, to be known as the Northeast Pennsylvania Synod, would encompass 14 northeast Pennsylvania counties. It would include the cities of Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Hazleton, Pottsville, Reading, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, and many rural congregations.

A synod spokesman said it is possible the new metropolitan synod would include Lutheran congregations in New Castle County, Del. These Delaware congregations now and part of the Maryland synod, and the move would require consent of that synod.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Kidd, president, termed the outcome of Wednesday's secret ballot "a forward step for our territory and for the church as a whole."

The 220-year-old Eastern Pennsylvania Synod is the oldest and by far the largest of the LCA's 32 synods. It has 372,000 baptized members—about 230,000 active members—in its 531 congregations.

The new synods formed by the split would still be among the top ten numerically in the LCA. The Greater Philadelphia Synod would have 93,000 active members in 180 congregations and the Northeastern Pennsylvania Synod 137,000 members in 351 congregations.

The division voted Wednesday had been endorsed in principle at last year's convention by a 397-223 vote. A committee on structure and function, headed by the Rev. Dr. William Horn, pastor of St. John's Church, Philadelphia and a proponent of the two-synod plan, was directed to present a more detailed report at this year's convention.

The two-synod plan involves not only the geographic boundaries, but also the division of assets between the two new corporations and the determination of projects the synods might conduct jointly.

Couple Honored For 35th Anniversary

A surprise open house was given for Mr. and Mrs. George Ashenfelter, R. D. No. 1, Du Bois, in honor of their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary. The event was hosted by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Means Jr. of 344 East Fifth avenue, Warren.

Mrs. Ashenfelter, the former Alta Marie Monks, and George N. Ashenfelter were united in marriage on May 4, 1933, and are the parents of three children; Carol Means, Warren; Robert Dean, DuBois; Mrs. Robert Bennett, (Georgia) Ashtabula, Ohio. They have six grandchildren.

Mr. Ashenfelter just recently retired after serving forty-three years in the teaching profession for the Sandy Twp. School District, of which the past eight years were spent in the capacity of Supervising Principal for the DuBois Area Joint School Dist.

Mrs. Ashenfelter was presented a beautiful carnation corsage, tinted green, the color for that particular anniversary. Mr. Ashenfelter received a boutonniere.

A buffet luncheon was served the thirty-one guests present. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ben White of Warren.

The color theme was carried out in green and silver and the table centerpiece was white wedding bells with doves around a wedding cake.

The guests of honor received many lovely gifts and best wishes from those present from DuBois, Knox, New Bethlehem and Kittanning.

Youth Group Speaker

Archie L. Anderson, an employee of the Bell Telephone Company for the past 43 years of Warren, has been invited by the Free Methodist Youth of the Youngville Church to show his colored film of the Shinto Shrines of Japan, the Buddhist Temples in Thailand and the Hong Kong Free Methodist Church in Cowloon where Rev. Alton Gould is in charge.

The pictures were taken by Mr. Anderson on a trip to the Orient a year ago by the Royal Travel Agency of Pittsburgh, Pa., under the auspices of The Telephone Pioneers of America.

Rev. Robert Williams, pastor of the church, cordially invites the public to see these interesting pictures on Sunday, at 6:00 p.m. at the Youngville Free Methodist Church.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Some time ago you mentioned various foods that could be carried in a wide-mouthed vacuum bottle. But one thing not mentioned which I have been taking to work for nearly a year now, is ICE CREAM.

Here is the procedure I use in packing it:

Let the bottle sit overnight in the refrigerator with the top off. Then get the ice cream from your freezer and dip out several scoops, easing them down into the bottle with a spoon, being careful not to touch the sides of the bottle.

Be sure to fill the bottle full or the ice cream will not be firm.

Mrs. Harold Payne

DEAR FOLKS:

Know those loafers that we buy?

Well, eventually we all love to wear 'em without socks. That's when they get soiled inside. Especially if they are not lined with leather or washable materials.

So I buy mine a half-size larger than usual and at the same time buy innersoles to put inside them. This way they hug my tootsies, yet all I have to do is remove the innersoles and wash 'em!

So next time when you buy a pair of loafers or have an old pair that have stretched, why not put innersoles in them?

I know you will love it. I do. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I'm one of your male readers who enjoys your column. Here is a hint for those with windows stuck partly open after the window and frame have been painted.

I use a rubber mallet to bang the sides of the window near the frame. Also apply a few hearty blows to the top and bottom of the window.

This sure beats the putty knife routine, and there is less marring of the wood and finish.

Kent Coolidge

DEAR HELOISE:

I've learned to always wash strawberries thoroughly before removing the stems. This keeps them from mashing so easily and losing juice and flavor.

My relatives live where they grow strawberries and I did not know this trick until last year, but I tried it and it sure works.

Elaine Bolton

Bingo! You are as right as the strawberry itself.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER.

DEAR HELOISE:

I think I married a girl who had never made a cup of coffee in her life. But for someone who has even burned eggs while boiling 'em, she turned out to be the best cook and housewife that a man could have.

When I was telling another housewife about this, she said when she was a young bride, the first time she cooked bacon she asked her husband how much grease to put in the skillet.

I was just wondering if all housewives do "dumb" things, when they first start house-keeping?

Happy Husband

How about it gals? Did you pull some dumb things when you were first married? I know I did. Jot them down and send them to me in care of this paper. Then we can all have a big laugh together.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When making a cake, instead of measuring the liquid and shortening separately, I do it at once.

It saves using two measuring cups.

Example: I use a two-cup pitcher and put one cup of milk and enough shortening in it to bring it up to the one and one-half cups mark if that's what the recipe calls for.

Lift out the shortening with a fork and cream with the sugar, then continue from there.

Perfect measure for your shortening every time and saves washing a greasy measuring cup, as it will not stick to the milk-filled cup.

Ruth Kimiecik

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

What does one do when they discover that a super-duper hint given them by a friend—who thought it was a keen one to send Heloise—had been given her by a friend who had been given it by a friend who had a friend who read it in Heloise's beloved column or book? Confused?

Well, I'm six shades of red and still blushing! So sorry!

E. B.

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever tried making your toast in a no-stick skillet over medium heat? Works great and it's real handy for people who live alone.

Just smear bread with some soft oleo first, then pan fry.

Ambulance Drivers are Dedicated Men

TWO AT THE READY

The North Warren Volunteer Fire Department Ambulance Service proudly shows off its two Cadillac ambulances, ready at a moment's notice to come to the aid of the injured or the sick. Pictured with them are four of the 30-some

AT HOSPITAL

John Mintzer and partner wheel Mrs. Beatrice McCann of Madison ave. into Warren General Hospital. The boys call her "Grandma Bea" and she says she's always been happy with the services of the North Warren ambulance crews.

CHANGE LINEN

Linen is changed at the hospital after each trip. The crews throw the used linen down the hospital chute and remake the "bed" with fresh linen supplied by Warren General. That's John Mintzer and partner, after delivering "Grandma Bea" to the hospital.

By NATALIE WILLIAMS

The shrill ring of the telephone sends a man from the dinner table to an accident scene and within minutes the victim is on her way to the hospital.

Back home, he sits down again — to the dinner his wife has kept warm for him. But before he has a mouthful, the phone summons him to duty again. This time it's a heart attack case.

He's a volunteer ambulance driver and attendant.

In the middle of the afternoon the single wail of the fire siren announces that a second ambulance is needed at the scene of a tragedy. A man who was taking a shower is out of the house in three minutes flat, has found a partner and arrives at the scene only minutes after the first ambulance crew begins picking up the injured.

These are the dedicated volunteers who man the North Warren Volunteer Fire Department Ambulance Service 24 hours around the clock. Calls don't always take them away from dinner, arouse them from sleep, or interrupt other activities — but they are always at the ready when the call for help comes.

They work in pairs, assigned by Ambulance Chief Bob Mahan, who was one of the originators of this unique service — unique because it is considered a model by the Commonwealth — which serves the 15,000 people who live in Warren Borough and those in rapidly growing North Warren.

In addition, through a mutual aid arrangement similar to that conducted by the various volunteer fire departments throughout the county, they are often called to assist in other areas.

Just as the Russell ambulance responded Sunday evening when three vehicles were needed to take five seriously injured people to the hospital, North Warren may be called when a tragedy occurs in Clarendon or Youngsville or Russell or any other area in the county.

Good ambulance service is maintained throughout the county, but none can be better than North Warren which receives most of the calls — several hundred times as many during the course of a year.

In fact, none throughout the state can be better. At a meeting in Warren during which ambulance service in the Commonwealth was being discussed, State Sen. Richard C. Frame asked whether North Warren would be willing to serve as a model for other communities. It would be more than willing — the men are proud of the service they are able to provide. A representative from Greenville has talked to North Warren to seek assistance.

More recently, an official of the state environmental safety division also asked North Warren to serve as a model for communities that need advice.

Twelve years ago, Warren came close to having no ambulance service at all. Like many other communities throughout the nation, then and now, the ambulance business wasn't doing very well financially and for other reasons.

At that time, according to Mahan, the four funeral directors in Warren Borough provided ambulance service and had decided to get out of the ambulance business. An individual effort to provide service was failing. The local hospital was not prepared to assume this responsibility and fears arose as to what could be done, not only in the case of accidents, but to transport sick people to and from the hospital.

About a year prior to this time, Mahan said, the North Warren Volunteer Fire Department had been talking about providing ambulance service for people in that community.

The funeral directors had announced to borough council that they would cease providing ambulance service as of October 31. The North Warren firemen thought they might buy one of the vehicles for their own use since the community was growing so rapidly.

But as the months wore on, talk turned more and more to serving the borough also. It took a lot of persuasion, Mahan recalls, but today one of those most strongly against the move is now one of its staunchest supporters.

North Warren bought a Buick ambulance from the Templeton Funeral Home and went into the ambulance business November 1, 1956.

The North Warren Volunteer Fire Department owns all of the equipment and carries the liability insurance. Ambulance service is provided by a separate organization within the department, with its own elected officers, which maintains itself financially as a separate unit.

The men are justifiably proud of the ambulances and equipment they carry and of their training to handle emergencies of any nature.

In 1958 the ambulance unit bought a new Cadillac and the department has had two ambulances ever since — always Cadillacs, both traded in periodically on a rotating basis. The most recent acquisition was a 1965 Cadillac for which the '58 model was traded.

Each ambulance is fully equipped with oxygen, a hospital recommended first aid kit, fracture boards, splints, an pnealator resuscitator and other necessities.

Oxygen is piped from a big tank in the front of the ambulance to the patient or accident victim in back. A 250-foot coiled rope is at the ready in case of an accident in the reservoir area or on a hillside.

Four 110-volt electric outlets can keep an incubator at the proper temperature through a long or short journey and many incubators have been carried by North Warren ambulance, most recently one with a three-day-old baby.

The '65 Cadillac can also accommodate an iron lung.

All of this service is provided for a mere $4 a year. Membership is on a subscription basis and covers an individual or his family — husband and wife and children under 18 or relatives listed as income tax dependents.

The $4 membership provides service at any time or as many times as necessary throughout the year within a 50-mile radius from North Warren. Outside this radius, the member pays 30 cents per mile — in the case, for instance, of transportation to a Buffalo or Erie hospital or elsewhere.

North Warren ambulances have transferred patients to hospitals in Pittsburgh and Cleveland and as far away as Boston. Out-of-town trips are made at the rate of one or two a week, according to Mahan.

Non-members pay $15 for the first 10 miles and 30 cents a mile beyond this point.

The volunteers conduct a membership drive in the downtown Warren area once a year and encourage families to enroll. They point out that this nominal sum brings peace of mind in knowing that additional expenses will not be incurred when sickness or accidents necessitate trips to the hospital.

The 24-hour service is divided into four shifts to accommodate volunteers who have varied working schedules. The shifts are midnight to 8 a. m., 8 a. m. to 2 p. m., 2 to 5 p. m., and 5 p. m. to midnight. Two men are always on call during any of these four periods; two more can be ready in minutes if a second ambulance is needed.

(Con't on B-6)

Ambulance

(Con't from B-5)

Each week Ambulance Chief Mahan assigns the crews for the following week, beginning at midnight Sunday. He then lists their names with the hospital.

Warren General Hospital coordinates the calls, which may be received from borough or state police, a doctor, a member or other source. This policy was decided upon through talks with Joseph Williamson, former WGH administrator. There are two sound reasons for this: the hospital switchboard is manned 24 hours a day and the hospital then has advance information on the patient or victim coming in and can alert doctors and nurses.

There are about 30 drivers and attendants. All operate in either capacity, one driving and one riding with the patient or victim. Currently on the roster are Bob Mahan, Doug Ward, Louis Barone, Bill Anderson, Dave Rester, John Butterbaugh, Del Van Epps, Bob Gustafson, George Look, Bill Bullock, Denny Bullock, Mike Clark, Walter Maines, Charles Hennsley, Jeff Manchester, Dave Cohan, John Williams, Tom Dunham, Eric Cederquist, Tom Tomassoni, Bill Swartz, Wayne Miller, Robert L. Anderson, Ralph Arsenault, Dan Thoms, Dave Ried, Bud Meadows, Tom Haines, Frank Holmes, Bob Bearfield and Rick Brecht.

All are specially trained and take refresher courses every three years.

All are members of the fire department and many serve in both capacities, although some stick strictly to ambulance duty. Some are non-residents of the North Warren community who volunteer because of their desire to help others; these men are voted into the fire department and could in case of a serious fire work along with other members of the department.

Their training includes standard and advanced Red Cross courses and the ambulance attendants' course sponsored by the Environmental Safety Division of the Department of Health and Welfare of the State of Pennsylvania.

They know how to handle all manner of situations, from accident victims to contagious diseases or violent or obstreperous patients, who can be strapped down if necessary.

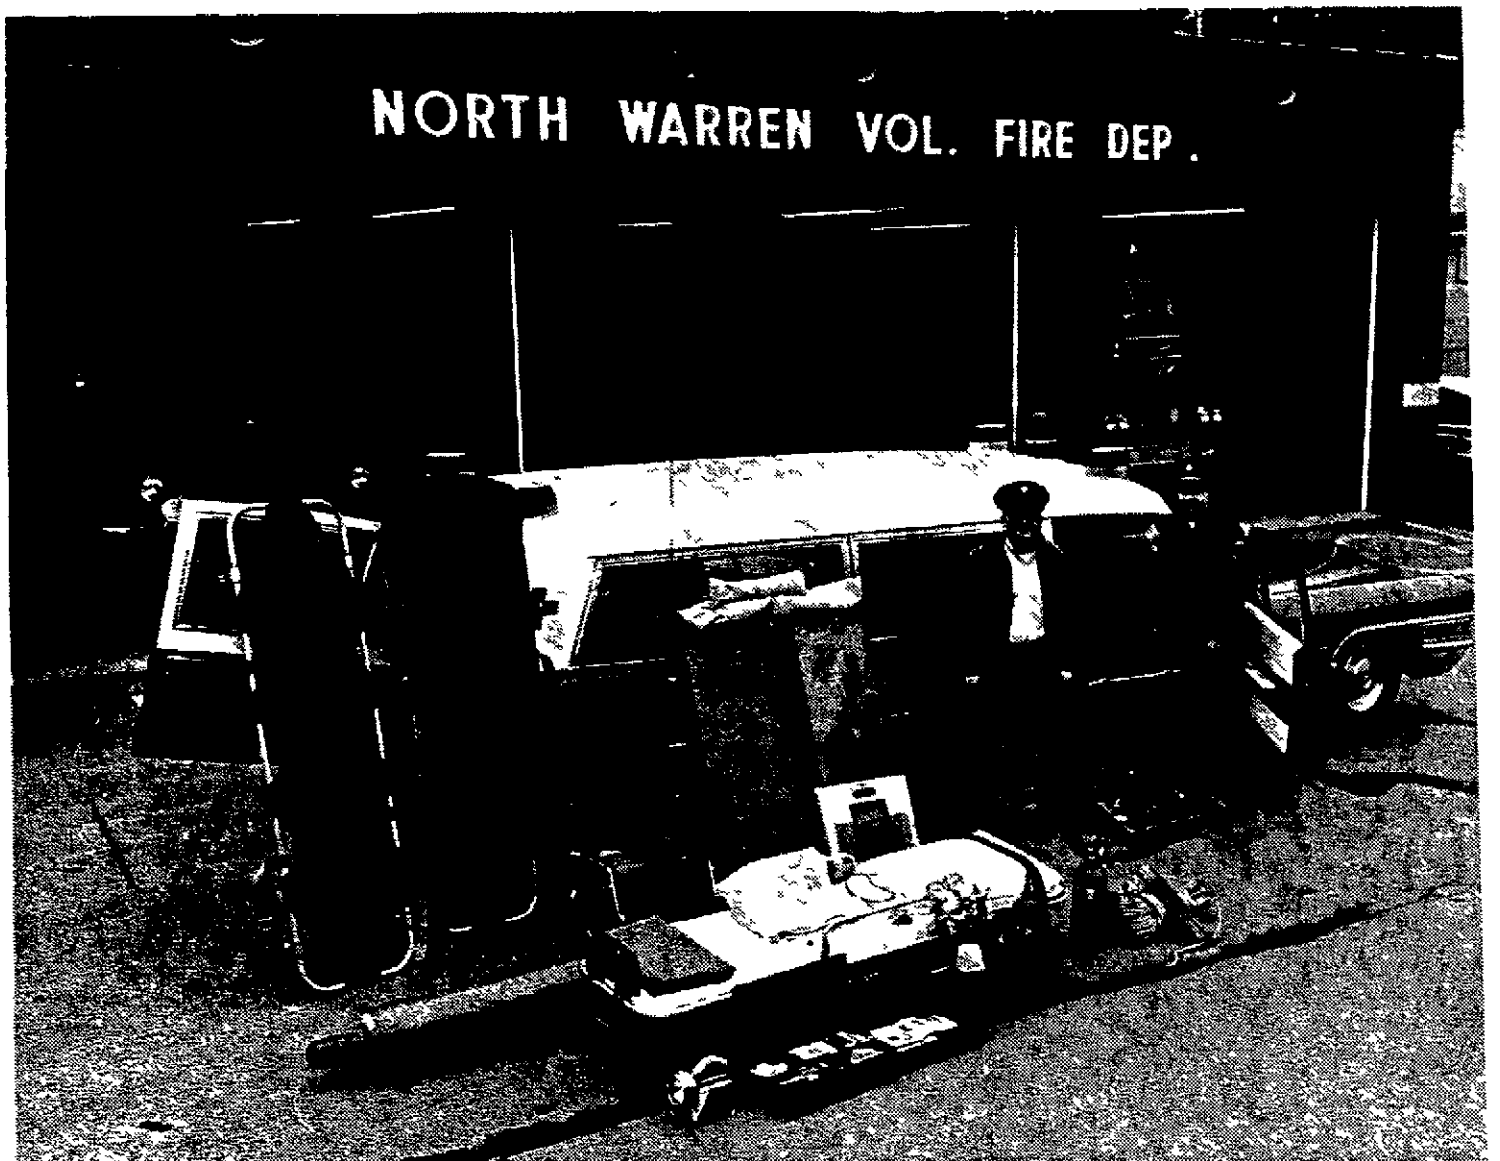

In the case of contagious diseases, the '65 Cadillac is equipped with an internal fumigation system. When the ambulance is returned to the fire house, this is plugged in and the ambulance is sterilized in about 12 hours. The other ambulance is taken to the hospital which provides the crew with the proper disinfectants.

Linen is changed by the crews after every trip. Hospital linen is used. The crews strip the stretcher, throw the linen down the hospital chute, and make up the "bed" with fresh linen. After accidents, the ambulances are scrubbed down at the fire house and all equipment used thoroughly cleaned or sterilized if necessary.

The ambulances use their sirens as little as possible to avoid causing alarm or disturbing people with the noise.

When a North Warren ambulance is seen quietly driving along the road, it is merely transporting a sick person or on its way back to the firehouse after a call.

When the red lights are flash-thoroughly cleaned. Everything is constantly checked over to make sure that each item is in its proper place and ready for immediate use.

PREPARED FOR ANY EMERGENCY

ing, it is in a bit of a hurry but it is not an emergency. The crew will, however, ask borough police to change traffic signals to flashing lights to expedite the trip by clearing traffic.

When the siren is on, there is a real rush to get the person to the hospital as rapidly as possible.

Good drivers know they must pull over to the side when traffic signals are flashing.

Bob Mahan, who was the original ambulance chief, is chief today. He is elected to this position as is the secretary of the service. The chief appoints a committee of two members to work with him and reports at regular meetings to the fire department.

He reports also to the county ambulance board which consists of the administrator of Warren General Hospital, Robert Kinney; the local health officer, Ed McKendrick; and Dr. William Walters. This board coordinates ambulance service throughout the county and handles any complaints which are few indeed.

North Warren has received hundreds of "thank you's," both verbally and written for the speed of their response and the care they take in handling accident victims or the sick.

The North Warren Volunteer Fire Department Ambulance Service currently has about 1700 members. It wishes it had more. Although charges to non-members help considerably to pay for new equipment, these dedicated volunteers are more than willing to answer any calls, however many, for a family throughout the year for the $4 membership fee.

They are volunteers because they sincerely want to help people. They urge well-meaning people not to move accident victims because they will arrive quickly and know how to handle injuries so as not to make the situation worse.

A person who slips on the ice may be merely stunned and have a few bruises, but he will be placed on a back board in case of a possible back injury. Bleeding will be stopped by a pressure pack, held in place by an attendant until the victim arrives at the hospital. Broken bones will be carefully splinted so that no further damage occurs.

And despite the speed that may be necessary, the person can be sure of arriving at the hospital safely -- in its 12 years of operation there have been no accidents in the borough.

AT SCENE OF CRASH

Louis Barone and his partner prepare to lift an accident victim, being given first aid, onto the stretcher for a hurried trip to the hospital. Some members of the fire department -- Gary Snyder, Dick Smith and Don Devore -- who were apparently called to put out a fire in the car, stand by.

WITH TENDER CARE

Ambulance Chief Bob Mahan prepares to examine an accident victim to determine the extent of injuries before moving the person from the car to the stretcher. All drivers and attendants are specially trained and take refresher courses every year so that they know how to handle all types of injuries. They will use splints, back boards, pressure packs or whatever is indicated by the condition of the victim to assure safe and speedy arrival at the hospital with a minimum of discomfort.

Your Horoscope By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Do not make promises you cannot fulfill, but resolve to achieve—at least, to work hard at—as much as is reasonably possible in the time allotted. A better-than-average outlook.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Look deep into all situations now. Surface appearances could be misleading. Especially favored this day: Art and educational interests, domestic matters.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Mercury highly auspicious. Your bright mind should be especially keen, your ideas not only inspired but feasible. Written matters, communications generally in fine favor.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—An excellent day! You may be the recipient of special favors, tokens of good will or other unexpected benefits.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Analyzing, organizing, travelling, handling others' affairs among especially favored activities if details are in order. Use forethought in all situations.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—You will now have occasion to use your fine intelligence and imagination. Do not fail those who count on you. Develop your latent talents.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Avoid lackadaisical tendencies. Concentrate on a do-it-now program. Your gifts of impartiality and cutting red tape can be a big help on this day's road to achievement.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Stick to essentials and avoid extremes in all areas. The evening hours will comprise an excellent period in which to pool ideas. Emphasize your wit, business acumen and persuasiveness.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Industry and reliability can pave your road to many outstanding gains now. There's more to the day than shows on the surface: Don't sell its possibilities short.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Watch trends and join forces with those who have a stake in the common welfare. Your priceless energies can be of great help now.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—You may have to do some extra maneuvering, revise some plans now. Don't go too far out on a limb, however. Stability will pay off.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—There's more than one way to get around a difficulty. This, your keen mind should tell you readily. The day will not be very problematical, but it WILL bring its moments of frustration.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with unusual individuality; originality, marvelous adaptability. Your leading planet, Mercury, indicates mental alertness and versatility, but you are often dissatisfied with your own attainment. Never lose your self-confidence. Foster your talent for sensing immediate needs and knowing how to cope with unwieldy situations; it could be your coup de grace in tight places. Consider your goals thoughtfully, then learn all you can about your subject before you start. In this way you can avoid many pitfalls, witless errors. Don't scatter your energies. Birthdate of: Ralph Waldo Emerson, essayist.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1968 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

+ SURPLUS POUNDAGE

Obesity is simple to treat but the end results are often disappointing. It is easy to lose weight but difficult to remain slender. The only way to avoid regaining lost pounds is to establish proper eating habits and follow them on a permanent basis.

A Chicago colleague of mine never discusses a specific number of pounds to lose—such as five a month. Dieters become discouraged when only two pounds are shed. In his opinion, the long term downward trend is the only way sensible eating habits can be established.

+ In addition, this medico insists that the individual weigh in at his office and not at home. He stresses losing inches rather than pounds. This approach is logical, because when dieting, excess blubber turns into water and the waistline shrinks even though weight remains the same. In time, the water is eliminated.

Obesity in childhood and adolescence usually continues into adult life. This group has difficulty in losing fat. On the other hand, many who are slim when young become obese later in life. This is understandable because after age 20 the body burns up 1 per cent less calories yearly. In other words, a 55-year-old man or woman may be metabolizing from 30 to 40 per cent fewer calories per day than he burned up as a teen-ager.

+ To maintain the weight carried at 25, the individual should reduce his food intake 1 per cent a year. Many should eat even less than this because physical activity lessens with advancing age.

Certain people are born to be plump. They have always been heavier than their contemporaries because of a heavy skeletal system. Some also are taller and broader. Typical examples include women of eastern European descent.

TOMORROW: Skin Test in Amebiasis.

+ Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

+ TARTAR STEAK

A.M. writes: Is it harmful for a woman of 60 to eat raw, chopped round steak two or three times a week? She eats this food because the meals served in the school cafeteria are not good.

REPLY

Many people eat raw beef (tartar) without acquiring parasites. Where you buy the meat is most important, and we assume it is safe, so long as it comes from a first-class market. On the other hand, the teacher's reasons are not correct because cooked meats are just as nutritious.

+ TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—

Garlic does not lower blood pressure.

Educational Television Schedule

Selected Viewing

Saturday, 7:30 p. m. — THE DISSENTERS features William F. Buckley, Jr., one of the leading spokesmen for American conservatism. Buckley, host of THE FIRING LINE, seen over WPSX-TV, discusses his conservative view of the United States and of world events.

Sunday, 8 p. m. — AN EVENING OF ITALIAN TELEVISION presents a wide variety of Italian programs, ranging from culture to commercials. One of the highlights of the film is "Studio One," a popular variety program; this segment features Nancy Sinatra, Rita Pavone, and the Hermes Pan dancers.

Monday, 10:30, 11:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. — ONE NATION, INDIVISIBLE? focuses on racial tension and conflict in the United States. The program looks at the world of the American Negro and his struggle toward a better life. This series of educational programs for junior-high and high school students will continue on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week in the same time period.

Tuesday, 9 p. m. — ADVENTURE continues its tour of the African continent via balloon. On today's program the balloon travels over the Serengeti Plains for a look at the world's largest concentration of game herds.

Wednesday, 3 and 9 p. m. — YOUR DOLLAR'S WORTH, a series designed for the American consumer, today focuses on "Consumer Protection." The program will examine government and private agencies which insure that the buyer is not deceived in the marketplace.

Thursday, 8 p. m. — NET FESTIVAL presents a portrait of "Carlos Chavez," Mexico's leading composer and conductor. The program, filmed in Mexico and during Chavez' recent tour of the United States, shows him rehearsing his own classical music compositions.

Friday, 10 p. m. — NET PLAYHOUSE presents "Dr. Knock," Jules Romain's farce about a medical charlatan who converts the entire population of a French village into happy hypochondriacs.

He graduated in 1959 from Jamestown High School and from the Practical Bible Training School in Binghamton, N. Y., and, in 1966 from Florida Beacon College, St. Petersburg, Fla. He is the grandson of Mrs. William Hoffman, 211 N. South street, Warren.

HOW MUCH

— Am I Really Worth? Exactly what do I weigh? Am I heavier than my money. or, is it getting the best of me? The all-important question is — when God puts me on the balances — will the weight hand deceive Him? If all a man has to offer the world is his body created in God's image — his chemical composition — his dead weight... then that man is of little value to himself, to humanity, to God. Heavier, don't try to analyze your worth by pointing to the pile of silver you control. No one grows bigger when he says "no" to the varied opportunities he has to serve God. Far better to say, "silver and gold have I none," if I am given to serving God, helping the lost to find their way to a place of worship... to His church.

Yes Is The Church
The Church Is Yes
— Here a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come to the church. Let us get together for the love of the Lord. Let us get together for the love of our fellow men. Let us get together for the love of our world. Let us get together for the love of God.

PEOPLES' CHURCH—SUGAR GROVE

Remember the Servicemen

By L. Dwayne Thorson, Pastor

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," John 15:13.

In these words of the Lord Jesus we would remember the servicemen who have given their lives for our country.

Next Thursday is Memorial Day, a day set aside as a national remembrance. Across the land there will be many Memorial Day services and observances as a thankful people take official notice of a host of patriotic men and boys who demonstrated this "greater love."

But Memorial Day should not only be a day of remembrance. It should be a day of dedication. Let us tell to the world that our boys have not died in vain. Let us also proclaim that we dedicate ourselves anew to the cause of freedom—that we, by God's help, will preserve our beloved country as "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

This day should also be one of realization. At such a time, we are forced to recognize that there is such a thing as death. Memorial Day reminds us that death is the common lot of mankind. Let us grasp this truth and prepare ourselves, lest the day of death come upon us unawares.

Lastly, Memorial Day should be a time of salvation. Notice in the verse above the words

"No man," "Greater love hath no man." However, there is a love beyond the powers of man. In Romans 5: 8, 10 we read, "While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us . . . while we were enemies." What no man could do, Jesus did when he died on the Cross of Calvary. With a love beyond comprehension, he died that we might live. Thus Jesus offers to the boys dying on the battlefield and to those of us here at home, not death, but eternal life.

Jesus died to save you
On the Cross of Calvary,
But you must receive Him
If from sin you would be free.
If you've never known Him,
Or, if you have lost the way,
Turn from sin to Jesus —
He will wash your sin away.

you may wrap your Film and Money with your Name and Address and mail in your own envelope.
- 3 Our FAST SERVICE — one of the finest film processing plants in the U.S.A. — immediately develops your film and makes prints or slides. No more time-taking double trips bringing your film to a store and picking up your prints! You deal direct by mail. We RUSH your order postpaid, direct to your home.
- 4 With each order you send we replace FREE, factory-fresh, your same size and type Kodak Film. You'll never have to buy film again — we keep you supplied.

For Money-Saving Prices on Other Sizes and Types
Not Listed at Left, See Complete Price List on Your Special FILM-MAILING Envelope—Read Sec. 1 above.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE!

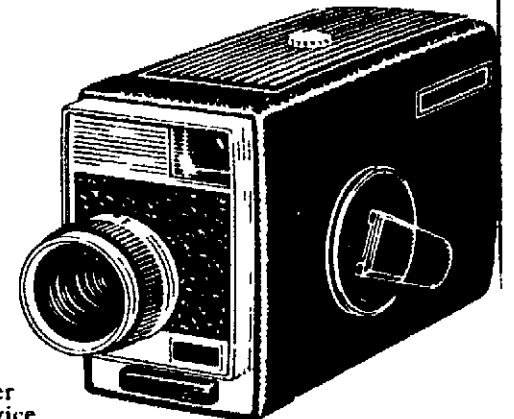

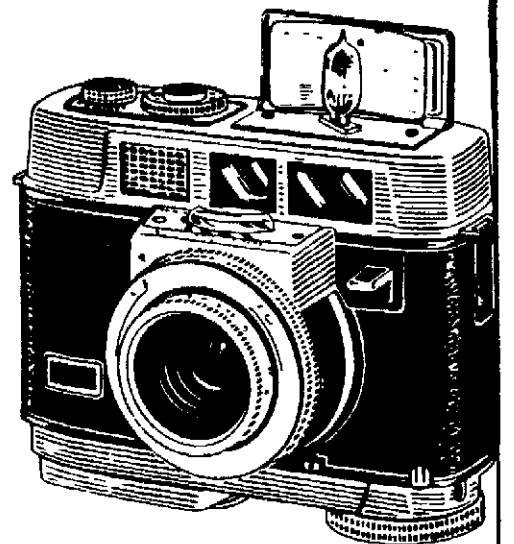

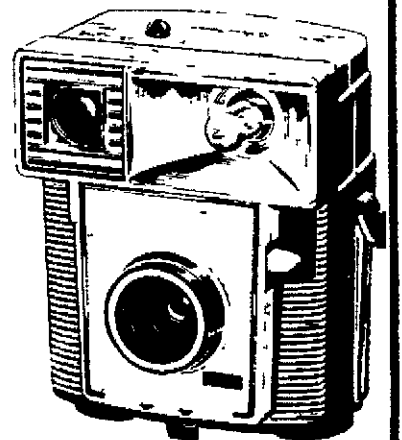

You can depend completely on our highest quality processing.
We're sure you will become a regular customer of Rochester
Photo Service. If for any reason you are not entirely satisfied return your prints and your money will be refunded.
